RECORD FOR PEACE-TIME

House Approves New $259 Billion U.S. Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with a July 1 deadline, the House voted Friday to authorize the government to go deeper into debt to meet its bills.

A measure raising the limit on the national debt to a new peace-time high of 295 billion dollars was passed by a roll-call vote of 255-117, after unexpectedly heated opposition, and sent to the Senate.

The new debt ceiling would be good for one year only. After that it would drop to a new "permanent" level of 285 billion dollars. The present temporary limit of 288 billion dollars expires June 30, when the ceiling is due to drop to 283 billion unless Congress completes action on an increase before then.

MORE BILLS DUE

The actual debt now stands at around 286 billion dollars, and more bills are due the first of the month.

President Eisenhower asked for the legislation, which faces further opposition in the Senate, to give the Treasury additional borrowing authority at a time when the government already is 13 billion dollars in the red for the fiscal year ending June 30.

After an angry debate under rules barring amendments, 167 Democrats and 88 Republicans voted to raise the debt limit, while 69 Democrats and 48 Republicans voted against the bill.

Before the roll call on final passage, members defeated by an unrecorded 127-24 vote a motion by Rep. Noah M. Mason (R-Ill.) to send the bill back to a committee pigeonhole.

On the showdown the members were told that the only alternative to permitting the government to borrow to meet its debts was to endanger the nation's solvency and credit.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania, senior Republican on the committee, which produced the legislation, said even those who had voted against big appropriations now had an obligation to avoid a financial crisis.

"The question is whether the credit of the United States is to be maintained, the bills are to be paid," Simpson said. "The majority in Congress has seen fit to authorize."

Senator Long Said Against Uncle's Return

WASHINGTON (Special) — Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.), strongly opposed returning his Uncle Earl to Louisiana this week but was overruled by the governor's wife, it was reliably learned here yesterday.

The information was divulged in the aftermath of Gov. Earl K. Long's flight from New Orleans to Baton Rouge and his quick commitment to the state hospital at Mandeville.

Sen. Long himself refused to comment on Earl's commitment or on its effect on the forthcoming gubernatorial race. The senator said last week he was considering entering the campaign. Since returning here Wednesday, however, he has not publicly mentioned the political situation.

ATTEMPTED

Russell Long attempted to testify at Earl's sanity hearing in Galveston, Monday, but was not permitted to do so. He later issued a statement saying that Earl appeared rested and would return to Louisiana to enter Ochsner hospital in New Orleans.

It is now known that the senator counseled against governor's leaving Galveston, but bowed to the wishes of Earl's wife, Blanche.

Sen. Long said Friday he had no immediate plans to return to Louisiana, but implied that he would go if needed. "I've got a job to do here," he said.

Also on Friday, Russell Long

Spreng On Way To U.S. Prison

AKRON, O. (UPI) — Flying bank robber Frank Spreng, repentant at last, was on his way to Alcatraz Friday to start serving a 25-year Federal sentence for bank robbery.

Spreng was brought back to Akron to be sentenced on six charges of armed robbery, auto theft and jail break. Judge William H. Victory of Summit County Common Pleas Court imposed a ten-to-twenty-five year sentence to run concurrently with a 20-year term for bank robbery by the Butler County Common Pleas Court.

All of the 29-year-old Akron man's jail sentences run concurrently. His attorney said he may be paroled in eight and a half years.

Prexy Victor In Argentina Grave Crisis

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentine President Arturo Frondizi early Friday night emerged shaken but at least temporarily safe from a rebellious challenge of the nation's armed forces.

This was the gravest crisis of his career.

Two top leaders of the rebel army and navy forces whose arrest had been ordered by the government voluntarily surrendered Friday night.

They are Rear Adm. Arturo Rial and Lt. Gen. Arturo Ossorio Arana.

The dramatic news came shortly after a two-hour secret conference of army bosses had resulted in a ratification of confidence in the war secretary, Gen. Hector Solanas Pacheco.

The War Ministry reported Ossorio Arana announced from Cordoba that he would come to Buenos Aires to testify on a sedition indictment.

Rial appeared suddenly in the Navy Ministry where proceedings had been started against him under similar charges. Both Ossorio Arana and Rial had been vainly sought by security forces since their arrest was ordered late Wednesday.

The rebellious military leaders had moved with threats for a showdown with President Frondizi.

A coup d'etat was feared if Frondizi did not agree to demands for drastic changes in his government.

The capital remained calm but troops were seen massing in various parts of the city.

A force of nearly a thousand armed soldiers assembled at

Threats Result In Man's Arrest

ATLANTA (AP) — A Mississippian was arrested Friday and charged with writing threats to the President and vice president and ridiculing the Secret Service for not catching him.

NEW FIRE BOAT

'Grey Ghost' Ready For Launching Here

The "Grey Ghost," a 33-foot fireboat, will be launched today on the Ouachita River in "ceremonies" marking the latest addition to the Monroe Fire Department.

Actually, the "ceremonies" will be a ride down the river climaxed by a fishery for five city officials.

Built by members of the fire department, the new craft received a grey coat of paint yesterday. Because of its color, the ship was dubbed the "Grey Ghost."

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard estimated the cost of the boat ran only $2,000. He said the city managed to cut the cost by having to buy only a hull and steel.

Geneva Talks Take 'Cooling Off' Recess

New Proposals By Khrushchev Snarl Meeting

GENEVA (UPI) — The Western Big Three Friday night called a three-week "cooling off" recess in the Geneva foreign ministers conference in the face of new Soviet demands that left the meeting more deadlocked than ever.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev brought the conference to a standstill with new proposals that would force Western recognition of Communist East Germany in exchange for a six-month extension of Russia's one-year "Allies go home" Berlin ultimatum.

DEFY THREAT

After the West called a recess until July 13, West Germany decided to hold its federal presidential election in beleaguered West Berlin, defying a Communist threat to blockade the city during the election period. West German parliamentary president Eugen Gerstenmaier announced the election would be held July 1, which falls during the recess of the foreign ministers meeting.

Gromyko originally wanted only a 10-day recess, but he finally accepted the Western demand for a longer one.

In his new proposals Friday, Khrushchev again called for a

Mickey Finn Burglar Glad Of Capture

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers Friday announced the capture of Walter Bernard O'Donnell, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives.

The announcement said O'Donnell, a Mickey Finn burglar who preyed on overweight women with alleged reducing pills, was apprehended at a Norfolk, Va., Hotel.

O'Donnell reportedly registered there as A. J. Rossi four days ago, just two days before the FBI added his name to its list of 10 most wanted criminals.

A picture of O'Donnell which appeared in the Norfolk Ledger led to his arrest.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said that glib-talking O'Donnell, posing as a retired U. S. postal inspector, was scheduled to make a talk Friday night before a Norfolk citizens group.

When arrested, he reportedly said, "I knew you'd get me eventually. I'm glad it's over."

O'Donnell in the past has used dances for aged couples and other social gatherings to gain friendships which later led to burglaries of his new found friends. For example, he would interest an overweight woman in his so-called weight reducing pills, persuade her to try them out and thus drug her.

When arrested he had in his possession a quantity of sleep-inducing capsules.

The FBI said on Wednesday that his pills were "potentially as deadly as a gun" and caused serious illness in many victims.

Youths Ordered To Learn Psalm

AUBURN, Ind. (AP) — Seven teen-age youths have the job of learning the 23rd Psalm to pay for the prank of putting lighted firecrackers in the ears of four tame rabbits.

Circuit Judge Harold D. Stump rejected the plea of the mother of one of the youths that they were no crueler than rabbit hunters.

Judge Stump ordered the youths to learn the famous Psalm, attend church every Sunday for six months, learn the names of all books in the Bible, observe a 10 p.m. curfew, and report to Sheriff Dorsie A. Likens every two weeks.

The youths, 17 and 18 years old, also were ordered to pay $9 each for the killed rabbits and for the 19 orphaned baby rabbits which had to be destroyed.

New England 'Sonic Boom' Excites Many

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — It was a B58 all right, that rocked much of northern New England Friday, but it hadn't crashed and exploded as one rumor had it. The Delta-wing Hustler bomber merely cracked the sonic barrier.

That was the explanation given at the Air Force's 26th Air Division SAGE — Semi-Automatic Ground Environment — headquarters in Syracuse, N.Y.

Officers said they were tracking the B58 to test the electronic warning system's capability of detecting such extremely modern, supersonic aircraft.

It was the first time, they said, that the Hustler had been used in that part of New England.

The blast caused a lot of excitement. There were reports the sonic boom was heard from Westbrook County in northern Maine to Fitchburg in north-central New England.

Couple Admits Setting Of 11 Costly Fires

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A newlywed couple Friday admitted starting 11 fires in St. Paul to "relieve nervous tension," police and fire officials said.

Det. Lt. George Barclay said Jerome L. Palmquist, 21, and his bride of three months, Delores, 20, were arrested early Friday near an east side lumberyard. Palmquist was carrying several pieces of tarpaper wrapped in newspapers, Barclay said.

Palmquist and his wife told of setting 11 fires since late May in which the loss totaled over $226,000. Palmquist was employed by a cheese factory until laid off a week ago.

Fire Chief Frank Oberg quoted the youth as saying he set the fires to "relieve nervous tension," and that Palmquist said he "felt better afterward."

"I was awfully nervous and tense," the wife told

Two Men Saved By Coast Guard

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Coast Guard amphibious plane rescued two Air Force men whose boat capsized Friday in Mississippi Sound, the CG office here reported. The men were not immediately identified.

The Coast Guard said their craft overturned one mile west of Petit Bois Island. An Air Force jet reported the accident from the air and the Keesler AFB tower diverted a nearby plane.

REHABILITATION BEGINS

Man Lives In Sty With Pigs A Year

ROENNE, Denmark (UPI) — Doctors Friday began rehabilitating a man who lived with pigs in a sty for a year. First they gave him a bath.

Hospital officials said their chief task was to get the unidentified 38-year-old man to re-enter human society.

Roenne's pigman exiled himself to the sty last summer after losing his job as a fisherman. He hid in the pig shack for a year. He told police he was too ashamed to face his family and friends because of losing his job as a fisherman. They had given him up for dead.

The ex-fisherman ate pig's fare. Physicians said he was "quite healthy," although thin and pale. Doctors said the man became depressed after losing his job a year ago. His employers said he was fired because he was late showing up for work, and his boat had sailed without him.

Claims Long Still Legally State Chief

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — A feud for control of Louisiana's state government erupted Friday night in the fantastic wake of Gov. Earl Long's commitment to a hospital for the insane.

The 63-year-old Long was himself not definitely not yet counted out. Although behind bars of a state hospital, he obtained lawyers for an apparent struggle to obtain a public hearing to determine whether he is sane.

The battle for control of the governorship swirled around Long, who claims he is not insane. Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar, who reluctantly accepted the role as acting governor but was moving with utmost caution, and the secretary of state, a bitter Long enemy, who said he would not allow Frazar to sign papers as governor unless Long stated his inability to serve.

DEADLOCK SEEN

The situation threatened to deadlock many state functions until it is ironed out.

The ghost of the governor's late brother, assassinated Huey, almost seemed to have a part in all the drama. Huey's body lies beneath a flood-lit statue on the capitol grounds, a reminder of the day in 1935 when bullets cut him down in a Capitol corridor at the peak of his career as a U. S. senator.

A doctor who examined the Chief Executive during the course of his latest illness said that Long subconsciously wants to be shot to death as was Huey. The doctor said the killing pace Long set for himself during the past month actually was an attempt at suicide.

A psychiatrist who also examined Long said there was danger the governor might have killed himself through extended manic excitement had he not been hospitalized.

During the final days of the state legislative session, Long made marathon appearances, hurling curses and insults at the

DISTRICT PRESIDENT

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard of Monroe is slated to deliver the welcome address, and Mayor A. P. Carter of Bastrop will address the group on the subject of the LMA insurance program.

Norris said several other persons will probably give short speeches.

Legislative programs, tourist inducement programs and the LMA retirement system will also be discussed during the 2-hour meeting.

Norris explained that possible

Acting Governor Sets Precedent

Charles, has served as acting governor many times.

"But, each time," he said, "the governor was out of the state."

Latest of these customary fill-ins came May 30 when the Long family dragged and flew a struggling Gov. Long to the psychiatric clinic at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, where he spent 19 days before his lawyers freed him from a District Court commitment for mental illness.

The hour Gov. Long flew back from Galveston to Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans, Lethy Frazier hastened to announce publicly that he now was only lieutenant governor.

Long had agreed to stay at Ochsner's at least two weeks. Instead, he ignored pleas of doctors and walked out less than 24 hours after the flight from Galveston. He headed for Baton Rouge with an apparent intent to take over full powers as governor.

Mrs. Long, however, had already sanctioned the commitment to Mandeville. The governor's car was stopped at the East Baton Rouge Parish line. He was rushed to the Baton Rouge Courthouse and examined by a court-appointed medical commission. A district judge signed the commitment order.

Frazier's immediate reaction was that he was confused and "I don't know where I stand."

He maintained that attitude through the night, stepping forward with his decision only after the clear-cut opinion from the attorney general.

In his illness, Gov. Long views his long-time workhorse and friend as a political opponent. From his Galveston hospital room, the governor yelled: "Frazier wants to run for governor, but he can't even walk."

Still, Frazier said Friday he would go to Southeast at Mandeville, La., to see Gov. Long as a personal friend—"If Mrs. Long or the family wishes it."

The new acting governor planned immediate conferences with attorneys and members of the Long family.

ward governmental affairs and could not be trusted by the legislative branch. They said these traits would only lead to more trouble if he stayed on.

Only two Republicans—Sens. Margaret Chase Smith (Maine) and William Langer (N.D.)—voted with 47 Democrats against Strauss. Aides said Mrs. Smith was impressed with the arguments of critics. The maverick Langer long ago announced his vote.

Among the 15 Democrats, mostly southerners, who voted with 31 Republicans for Strauss was Sen. Harry P. Byrd (D-Va.). Strauss had breakfast in his hotel suite with Byrd before going to the White House for a 20-minute meeting with the President.

Eisenhower, after taking with his defeated nominee, summoned reporters to his office. After commenting good-naturedly that he hadn't expected so many newsmen, he became stern-faced and read the following statement in clipped tones:

"Last night the Senate refused to confirm the nomination as secretary of commerce of Lewis Strauss—A man who in war and in peace has served his nation loyally, honorably and effectively, under four presidents.

"I am losing a truly valuable associate in the business of government. More than this—if the nation is to be denied the right to have as public servants in responsible positions men of his proven character, ability and integrity, then indeed it is the American people who are losers through this sad episode."

One report had the B58 down in Carmel or Newport, about 12 miles west of Bangor. State troops on the ground and a Dow Air Force Base helicopter refuted that one.

Another rumor was that an earth tremor, centered in the Brunswick area, was responsible. The Weston Observatory seismograph, outside Boston, showed no indications of a quake.

One Air Force source said it could happen—that a high-powered jet craft could create a continuing blast noise effect in a high-speed, high-altitude flight over a long distance, something like the effect of dragging a chain. As the plane passed overhead, the source said, each person hearing its high-altitude rumble would hear it only momentarily, creating in each listener the sound of a single, huge blast.

lawmakers. Finally he collapsed into what his family doctors called "complete physical and mental exhaustion."

Long's condition at the state mental institution at Mandeville was described as unchanged Friday night.

Earlier in the day he had a visit from J. O. Bankston, director of state hospitals, who complied with Long's request for attorneys of his own choosing. Bankston said the governor, who was forcibly confined as schizophrenic and paranoid—was under full medical care and that doctors are in complete charge of his present activities.

Frazier, after a conference with the attorney general, assumed reluctantly the job as lieutenant governor.

A few hours later, Secretary of State Wade O. Martin, Jr., one of Long's bitterest political enemies, struck at the Long machine and said he would not recognize Frazier as acting governor.

Since Martin must attest the governor's signature on all official documents, his action could bring state government to a standstill.

"I shall continue to recognize Earl Long as governor until he declares himself unable to act or until his inability to perform is declared incapable by some official body."

Martin said he had conferred with attorneys and come to the conclusion that so long as Earl Long was incapable of acting, he must be recognized as governor.

The hectic Louisiana political scene was further confused by the possibility Long may still battle his way out of the asylum with the demand for a formal public hearing on his sanity.

"Here you have a situation where the governor says he is governor, the lieutenant governor says he is only lieutenant governor and the attorney general says he (Frazier) is acting governor," Martin said.

Martin added that every day he has official documents coming to his office for him to affix the state seal and attest to the governor's signature. In view of that, he said, his opinion has a definite bearing on who is governor.

Long, seized by deputies and forcibly pulled, screaming and cursing, from a state highway patrol car, was in an isolation ward at Mandeville.

Commitment papers were signed by District Judge Fred S. Leblanc after Parish Coroner Dr. Chester A. Williams and Dr. Sparkman Wyatt, a psychiatrist, examined him as he sat in the back seat of the patrol car Thursday night outside the courthouse.

Wyatt said Long had delusions of persecution and an intense suspicion of everything and everybody.

Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion said Long can still demand a public sanity hearing.

Women Oppose Singapore Plan On Sterilization

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Women here Friday denounced a proposal that mothers with three living children voluntarily undergo sterilization to prevent over population of this new self-governing state.

The suggestion was made by Prof. B. H. Sheares, head of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of Malaya.

Mrs. Rosalie Hernon, secretary of the Chinese Ladies Assn., criticized the idea.

"What happens if a widow or a divorcee who has been sterilized remarries?" she said. "Few men, I think, would like to marry a woman who cannot bear children."

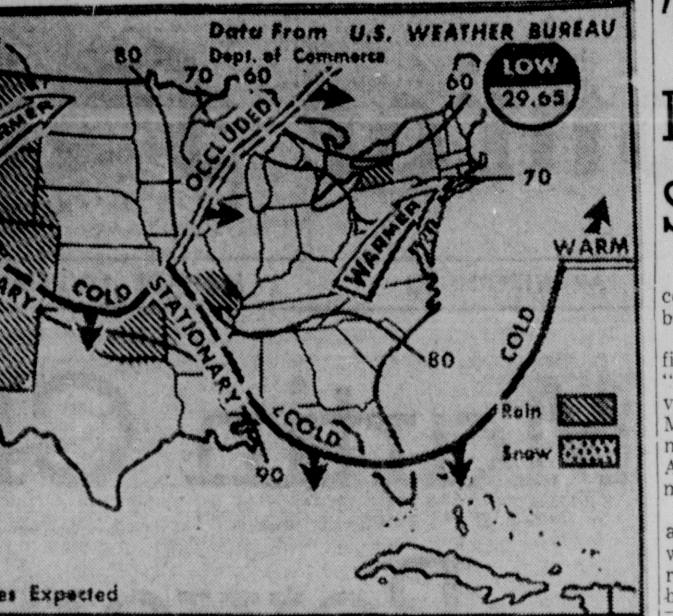

Other women reacted equally as strongly against the proposal.

"To give birth to a child is one of the proudest duties of a woman," a Chinese mother of 11 children said.

Senator Long Said Against Uncle's Return

STATEMENT

In the radio statement, he said his "primary interest has been the health of the governor... I did feel that the governor was going to kill himself and drive himself right to his grave unless somebody stopped him, and that was the interest of the family and that was my interest primarily."

"I think that was parallel to the state's interest," he added.

In a statement made hollow by events a few hours after it was spoken, Sen. Long said he hoped Earl would listen to his doctors and his wife and remain in Ochsner until rested.

The senator noted that more than half the hospital beds in the U.S. are filled with mental patients, who, "in a tremendous number of cases" can be cured completely.

"Sometimes they can't take on the same burden of workload that they had carried before but sometimes they can do even that. This man (Gov. Long) carried about five times the load that the average person is subjected to during life. And I think that probably the amount of burden he took on would have broken four or five good men over the hectic life that fellow led."

Motion To Quash Submitted Here

A motion to quash charges of "unlawful practice of medicine" against Monroe chiropractors H. C. Sloat, L. T. Murphy and R. E. Harvey was taken and submitted yesterday in Fourth District Court.

Judge Jesse S. Heard will rule on the motion next Friday, June 26.

The three chiropractors, indicted by the Ouachita Parish Grand Jury in April, maintain that their state and national rights, according to Louisiana and federal constitutions, are being violated.

The state medical board refuses to grant medical licenses to chiropractors, who ordinarily do not study surgery as do other physicians. The chiropractors charge that the law under which they were indicted is prejudicial since dentists, etc., are issued licenses to practice.

DECISION

Their request to "quash," or throw out-of-court the charges, will be decided next Friday.

In other action yesterday during felony session of court, 35 cases involving 32 persons came before the bench.

Clyde Turbeville was tried, found guilty of unauthorized use of a movable, and fined $50 or 30 days in the parish jail.

Two others were tried, Lucian W. Clancy was found guilty of reckless driving and fined $30 or 15 days; Thomas B. Rhodes was found innocent and acquitted of reckless driving charges.

Due for trial, but changing their pleas to guilty were: Archie Palmer Smith, sentenced to 30 days in jail for driving after his license was revoked; and Jack M. White, fined $25 or 10 days for driving without a license.

Other cases scheduled for trial but continued without date of trial set were: Gene L. Skipper, charged with second offense driving while under the influence of intoxicating alcoholic beverages; Sid Miles, Theo Lavon Wright, Robert Neal, Archie E. Perry Jr. and Wesley D. Burdine, all charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating alcoholic beverages.

Chester Roberts, also listed on yesterday's trial docket on charges of driving without a license, was called on bond when he failed to appear and his bond was forfeited.

James J. Cozine admitted speeding and was fined $35 plus court costs or 20 days in jail. Harold Dee Cline also admitting speeding, was fined $25 or 10 days.

DROPPED

Theft charges against William H. Edwards were dropped. Bennie R. Manly was fined $25 or 10 days on each of two charges: driving without a chauffeur's license and failure to post bond.

Charges of disturbing the peace resulted in fines of $25 or 10 days for Stella Gables, Leo T. Gables and Ira Lee Buggs.

Arraigned on charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating alcoholic beverages were: Eafnam Calloway, trial Nov. 13 and James H. Redmond Jr., trial Nov. 13.

Fined on reckless driving charges were Billy R. Nubles, $100 or 30 days and Kenneth E. Pratt, $25 or 10 days. Pratt also will have roads leading to them and will be available to the general public," Rushing stated.

Top Steel Official Terms Offer Final

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A top official of one of the nation's largest steel firms said Friday the industry has "made its final offer."

Some 3,289 acres are included in the proposed area to be bought with 22 miles of shore line, according to maps prepared by the Department of Public Works.

Public Works officials conducted surveys to determine land ownership surrounding the lake.

MAN-MADE

Rushing said a man-made lake comparable to Cheniere would cost $2-million. He pointed out that Dixie Lumber plans to find another buyer or drain the lake if the parish is unable to buy it.

According to Rushing, a commission would be set up to act in a supervisory capacity over the lake. In addition, the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission has promised biological assistance in controlling the water level, Rushing said.

"In short, the purchase of Cheniere would provide additional recreational areas for the Twin City area besides assuring the continuation of a present recreational lake," Rushing explained.

He said the purchase of Cheniere would tie "hand in hand" with a program now being planned by Olin - Mathieson Chemical Corporation to develop the wooded area between West Monroe and Winnfield for public hunting and fishing and picnicking.

in the critical wage negotiations with the United Steelworkers.

"We have made a proposal," the official said. "We will take a strike rather than change that proposal."

However, the official did not rule out the possibility of a wage increase. But he stressed the industry was presenting a solid front on its stand that there must be no increase in "employment costs."

There was an inference that it was possible the nation's basic steel workers would receive a pay boost only if industry's proposals for increased efficiency were met.

The steel official, who declined to be identified, indicated that in this area of efficiency production lay the possibility of a settlement before the expiration of current agreements midnight June 30.

Company bargainers in New York on June 11 indicated the 12 steel companies would grant a small wage increase if the union would take steps to eliminate "waste."

USW officials interpreted the offer to mean that hourly wage increases would be granted only if other concessions were made in job scheduling and in other issues so that the companies would not spend more money for operating expenses.

USW President David J. McDonald denounced the strings attached by industry as "blackmail" and said they would "rip the heart and sinews from the labor contract."

Archaeologists Find Ancient Rome Ruins

ROME (AP) — Archaeologists Friday reported uncovering important new ruins of ancient Rome, including a palace and a circus almost as large as the great Circus Maximus.

The ruins were found on the site of an old Italian army barracks in the eastern part of Rome, between the Basilica di Santa Croce and the Esquiline Hill, one of the original seven Roman hills.

Giulio Iacopi, Rome superintendent of arts, disclosed the discovery of the ruins which date back to the early 3rd century.

In a signed article carried by the Rome newspaper, Giornale d'Italia, he said the newly discovered circus was perhaps smaller in measure, but only a little, than the Circus Maximus.

The Circus Maximus, which seated up to 200,000, extends almost 2,000 feet in a hollow between the Palatine and Aventine Hills. It is a favorite tourist attraction of Rome.

Iacopi called the newly discovered sports field the Varian Circus because its site presumably had been the gardens of the Emperor Varus.

The palace, Iacopi said, was probably one of the residences of Emperor Heliogabalus. This palace adjoined the Basilica di Santa Croce, one of Rome's oldest churches.

The palace appeared to have been surrounded by spacious gardens and to have been connected with the circus. Ruins of an ancient court of law also were found.

Digging started last December. Iacopi said the discovery was of "immense value" and when completed in several months would provide important information on the last period of the Roman Empire.

ENTERTAINER SLASHED

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A 12-foot crocodile attacked a girl trainer at the circus Thursday night, gashing her face. The trainer, Doreen Duggan, was hospitalized after attendants seized the crocodile.

Future Water Supply Seen At Cheniere

Cheniere Lake, subject of a half-mill tax election here Tuesday, would offer a source of future water supply, according to Jack Rushing, Ouachita Wildlife Unit president.

"It will cost the average taxpayer from 50 cents to $1 per year," Rushing said.

He explained the Cheniere project at a wildlife unit fishery held last night at the American Legion Home in Forsythe Park. Rushing's remarks were in reference to a Tuesday tax election when Ouachita Parish property owners go to the polls to vote on a half-mill for the purchase of Cheniere.

Located outside West Monroe, Cheniere is being offered to the parish by Dixie Lumber Co., owners of the lake, for $150,000.

Four-tenths of the half-mill will go toward the purchase Rushing said, with the remaining one-tenth going for recreation areas. He explained that recreation areas would include picnic spots, parks and boat facilities.

Gains In Automation

Ever since the beginning of the machine age, many workers have feared that automation would rob them of their jobs. There are now more employed people in the United States than during any previous extended period in the history of our country. Nevertheless, automation does frequently cause temporary "pockets of poverty."

There is far less sentiment against automation now than existed 30 to 40 years ago. At that time there were a good many people who openly advocated destruction of machines so that there would be work for everyone.

The folly of a machineless age, however, was demonstrated in China for many centuries. There were no machines there to rob the people of their jobs but the production remained so low that 90 per cent of the population was in dire poverty and deaths by starvation were common in every city and town. The United States and Great Britain, by helping to introduce machines into China, brought some alleviation in that situation but the seizure of the Chinese mainland by Communists has retarded free industrial progress.

Some information on how automation displaces workers, but allows them to find other positions, has been given by Lester Velie, a reporter who has written on labor subjects for many years.

Because of new automated processes, automobile manufacturers can produce 50 per cent more cars than a decade ago with virtually the same number of workers. Steel-making has doubled in the same period, with 50 per cent fewer workers. Other industries show similar trends.

U. S. industry as a whole has recently reached an all-time peak but only two of every five jobless factory workers have regained jobs lost in the 1958 recession. Despite general prosperity, the "poverty pockets" persist in Buffalo, Detroit and other industrial areas.

Greater employment in service industries has partly taken up the slack in production-line jobs. Nearly 32 million Americans now work at selling, teaching, entertainment, banking, insurance, government and other non-manufacturing lines, as against only 14 million in 1919.

Education is one of the best answers to replacement of men by machines. Some of the most automated industries have adopted educational programs which enabled them to maintain or increase their number of employees. Bell Telephone companies, where the dialing changover knocked many thousands of operators out of jobs, instituted training for other skilled work and has boosted the total force by 200,000 since 1945 to 590,000 today. Highly automated Du Pont, needing "a new breed of all-around skilled craftsmen," has instituted intensive programs of classroom and on-the-job training for advance technology.

Competition, of course, is one of the things that spurs automation most. Not only are the manufacturing concerns in the United States compelled to seek ways of lowering costs, when labor is so high, to meet competition in this country but to meet that from abroad. For many years the American firms could meet foreign prices by keeping ahead of the other countries in automation, despite far higher labor costs. Now the other countries are pressing ahead with automation too and continued demands for increased wages in the American manufacturing industry are proving troublesome.

In the widespread extension of automation, Mr. Velie sees the inevitable "birth pangs of a new era."

In the final analysis, automation is an absolute necessity if the world is to be adequately supplied with food and goods. Some amelioration of the pangs of transition might be eased if labor would consent to a leveling off in wages, as advocated by President Eisenhower, and would thus allow industry to proceed more slowly with automation.

Room For Error

The American idea of government and mode of life reflects a freedom which has become traditional, that of having enough space and materials — if not money — to afford to waste some of it.

Professor Stephen K. Bailey of Princeton University has said our political institutions have always been in a state of "traditional disorder."

Briefly stated, the professor meant our government at all levels was at times loosely administered becoming tighter — or stricter — only in times of emergencies as wars, floods and storms.

In this respect, our government differs from the more socialistic governments of Europe and more recently Asia. The "isms" reflect the almost constant fear of shortages. The socialism of Hitler Germany preached a gospel of shortages: lack of space, lack of employment, lack of outlets to the sea, lack of world markets and even lack of control over the German economy. The national socialist movement was supposed to overcome the threat of all these shortages by careful planning with no waste involved. The Communist movement is similar in method and attitude. Both would see the United States system as a government by "fits and starts."

A striking example of the freedom to follow a trend in America is the reversal of the rush to the suburbs. Several years ago, every phase of city and home planning reflected the tendency to disperse the large metropolitan centers. Much good has been accomplished through this move. City traffic has thinned somewhat — though the increase in the number of automobiles has made this less apparent — the community shopping centers have made for convenience.

But the shifting about has left in its wake city slum areas. Washington, D. C., is in the middle of a face-lifting which includes a $5 million dollar apartment project within a thousand feet of the Capitol dome. Here is a striking example of the "back to the heart of the city" move which in effect is a counter current to dispersion. It is this measure of freedom which continues to make America strong. In the final analysis, the "traditional disorder" may be the most efficient social structure after all. There is no doubt that it furnishes the most desirable mode of life. Room for error also implies room for improvement, a challenge this country has always accepted.

Professor Bailey points out we are now living in a very different world from our grandparents and the government should run everything on a tighter basis. He gives as reasons the control of growing bureaucracies, sustained cold wars and international and domestic crises.

So he suggests ending the "disorder" and putting more teeth in the federal government and less control in the hands of state and local bodies. Further, he suggests changing the Constitution so that the president could succeed himself any number of times and go into office with an overwhelming majority of supporters in the House and Senate.

This may take all the slack out of American life and government, but isn't this the lost motion most of us have come to know as freedom?

History Often Omissions

Immediate Direct Attack Upon Japan From North Once Recommended By General MacArthur

History is often made by what is not done. The entire course of a nation can be changed by acts of omission, by failure to function, by the avoidance of a specific step.

On December 10, 1941, General Douglas MacArthur addressed a message from Manila to General George C. Marshall, who was then the boss of the Army in Washington. This message was sent three days after Pearl Harbor. It was sent by secret radio and was marked "Extra Priority." General Marshall sent it to "War Projects." "War Projects" favored MacArthur's idea. The message was pigeonholed and is not cited in the literature concerning this period. Until September 27, 1958, it was a secret, hidden document. But now it is history and must change the perspective on the war and its results. So here is the document:

RADIOGRAM

December 10 1941
1:30 AM 2:25 AM
12:04 PM

Extra Priority

Manila PI
General George C Marshall
December Tenth

The mass of enemy air and naval strength committed in the theatre from Singapore to the Philippines and eastward established his weakness in Japan proper and definite information available here shows that entry of Russia is enemy greatest fear STOP Most favorable opportunity now exists and immediate attack on Japan from north would not only inflict heavy punishment but would at once relieve pressure from objectives of Jap drive to southward STOP Information being secured by Knight who is known to Miles establishes that heavy air attack on Jap objectives would not only pull in much of present widely dispersed air strength but would destroy much of their exposed oil supply STOP Golden opportunity exists for a master stroke while the enemy is engaged in overextended initial air efforts

MacArthur"

Certain facts need to be recalled in connection with this document. Soviet Russia did not enter the Far Eastern War until within a week before its termination. Soviet Russia entered the war after the United States hurled the atomic bomb on Hiroshima and Nagasaki Russia entered one day before Nagasaki, laying Japan low and breaking the spirit of the Japanese people.

Had General MacArthur's proposal, three days after Pearl Harbor, been given consideration, the Japanese could not have continued their long course of victories which included the Philippines, Malaya, the Dutch East Indies and the approaches to Australia. Had Soviet Russia entered the Far Eastern War in 1941, Chiang Kai-shek's forces would not have become exhausted and the Chinese Communists would not have taken control of China.

This is all speculative but those who pigeonholed General MacArthur's message speculated on the possibility of winning a war without the aid of Russia, actually with Russia neutral and, in effect, giving aid to our enemy in the Far East while allied to us in the German side of the war, and conducting an agitation within the United States for a "second front"—a campaign which diverted the United States from its principal target which was then Japan.

There is a note on this message, written in longhand. It is initialed L.S.K.—which stands for Major L.S. Kuter, then assistant secretary of the General Staff. The note reads:

"Gen. Marshall is taking this up with HW. WPD recommended that every effort be made to bring Russia into war."

Little by little the documents of history come out of hidden files to add another page to the long story of human stupidity and ineptitude, or frailness and jealousy, of projects that cannot be carried through. Each of these small episodes costs thousands of lives and millions in wealth. Thus do empires rise and fall, the weak grow strong and the strong become weak. It is the story of mankind.

Small men in high positions can destroy what they seek to protect. This is the danger that all nations face. Kingdoms have been built by strong men only to be dissipated by their stupid grandsons. Republics are only strong as long as the people can check their officials; when an elite class develops which functions in secrecy, a republic dies.

Pilot Crackdown

Indications Are That Violations Will No Longer Be Tolerated

WASHINGTON — The Federal Aviation Agency is cracking down on airline pilots who violate air safety regulations and there is every indication that infractions which have been overlooked before will no longer be tolerated.

The agency does not like use of the phrase "crack down" but of official records show that actions against pilots are running about 50 percent greater than last year.

While not much has been said publicly there are signs that a rift is developing between the pilots and FAA which checks their flying performance.

Sharp words have been exchanged between FAA Administrator E. R. Quesada and President Clarence N. Sayen of the Air Line Pilots Association.

The association, which represents most of the commercial pilots, feels agency inspectors have been using "gestapo" methods in working up complaints against the pilots.

FAA, on the other hand, insists that the overriding interest of the public in matters of air safety has dictated that pilots be disciplined for any infraction of the rules that places a plane and its crew and passengers in jeopardy.

Sayen warned Quesada in a letter last month that unless this "petty and childish harassment" of pilots is discontinued there would be a complete deterioration of respect for the agency's inspectors on the part of pilots.

In a blistering reply Quesada issued a warning of his own when he said:

"I am astonished by the note of intimidation which I read into your inference that vigorous enforcement of the safety regulation on flight deck vigilance will be met by a program of non-cooperation among airline pilots in the air safety program."

"I would hope that this inference is an accident of language rather than a statement of intent."

Quesada reminded Sayen of two recent incidents which almost cost the lives of more than a hundred persons.

In each case, Quesada said, pilots gambled with disaster by leaving the cockpit in violation of regulations. One involved a 707 jet transport carrying 119 passengers which went out of control over the Atlantic and plunged 6,000 feet before it could be leveled. The pilot, who had left his post, was fined $1,000. In the other case a DC-7 with 35 passengers aboard failed to take proper evasive action when it approached an Air Force tanker refueling two fighter planes in flight. Quesada said investigation disclosed that the pilot of the DC-7 was in the passenger cabin "for reasons we contend were neither incident, nor necessary, to the performance of his duties."

For their part the pilots vigorously contend that the government has failed to set forth in unmistakable language just when they are permitted to leave their post to visit the passenger compartment.

The agency says a pilot can leave the cockpit for two reasons only — to go to the washroom and to check the cabin in the performance of his duties. If there is drinking aboard, for example, the pilot has the right to see that passengers are conducting themselves properly and are in no way endangering safe operation of the airplane.

This, of course, is open to wide interpretation and both the pilots and FAA will continue to interpret the regulations as they see fit.

Under a slight change in regulation pilots no longer are permitted to stroll down the aisle and chat with passengers. This has long been a "public relations" practice encouraged by the airlines.

An agency spokesman reported that none of the airlines have complained of this change in regulations.

FAA has 239 inspectors checking domestic flight operations and 306 who work on international flights. Sometimes they travel incognito; sometimes they identify themselves to flight crews.

"Our inspectors work pretty much like the Internal Revenue Service," an FAA official explained. "They can pick up almost anybody's tax return and find something wrong with it. We could do the same thing with airplanes and their crews."

This would seem to be sufficient to give FAA all the opportunity it needs if it wants to expand its crack down.

'Lazy' Thyroid

Underactive Thyroid Gland Causes Lack Of Strength, Ambition

If you are tired, listless and rundown, perhaps you have been taking "tonics," vitamins and "builder-uppers." Such are all right, provided that the trouble is due to lack of iron and vitamins in your system. However, if the cause of your easy fatigue and loss of vitality is due to an underactive thyroid gland, you will also need to take thyroid hormone.

Taking vitamins and iron for your blood usually help you with a few weeks. You notice a resurgence of strength and ambition. You want to go places and do things.

However, if such improvement is not forthcoming, better look elsewhere. A good place to look is at the butterfly-shaped gland in your neck called the thyroid. Your mirror may not tell you a thing. You may not even see an underactive gland — or feel it with your fingers.

But a metabolism will usually tell the story. If it is minus 15 or below, your doctor will have good reason to become suspicious. He may double-check by taking a specimen of blood and having the laboratory do a blood iodine determination (the lab man calls it a "proteinbound iodine"). If this also indicates a "lazy" thyroid you will need to take thyroid pills or cytomet. Within a month or two you will feel like a new person.

Hypothyroidism (especially in people over 40) is, I believe, one of the most commonly missed diagnosis. I recall dozens of persons who have gone from doctor to doctor taking "tonics" without help. They remained tired, listless, and without interest in life. Not until they had their thyroid gland checked, and found the real cause of their trouble, did they improve.

Therefore, if you have been unaccountably under par; if your doctor has found no real cause for your symptoms, ask him what he thinks about investigating your thyroid. Most doctors are open-minded enough to co-operate fully, for the sake of their patients.

If your metabolism is low, I promise you (if you react well to medication) it will be "wonderful not to be tired all the time." THE NEWER TREATMENTS OF HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE
Mr. T. M. of Buffalo, N. Y., wants to know if there really have been any significant advances in the treatment of hypertension. His doctor continues occasional good, old-fashioned, phenobarbital to reduce tenseness, and says there's no need for him to take anything else.

ANSWER: There have been advances. However, many high blood pressure patients continue to do well on simple medications and a restricted way of life. Many's the hypertensive who is under adequate control on phenobarbital, low sodium diet and restrictions in work.

There's always something "new" in medicine. But only time and experience tell us its real value. For example, a few years ago we were all excited about rice diets. At present, this treatment is not used in most cases.

We have a choice of such drugs as rauwolfia serpentina to calm the nerves; we have "ganglionic blocking agents"; we have the fairly new drug called chlorothiazide, which removes salt and water from the tissues efficiently.

Although all these are effective when indicated, only time will give us a proper overall perspective.

Daily Devotional

There are many unruly men, vain talkers and deceivers, specially they of the circumcision. — Titus 1:10.

Some Jews placed so much emphasis on ritual and ceremony that they forgot all about the necessity for right living. In modern times, church membership and outward conformity to church ideals can be a cloak for unworthiness and for those who flout the teachings of Christ. We are told by the Saviour that "Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven: but he that doeth the will of My Father." Truly, out of the heart are "the issues of life" here and in the hereafter.

O God, help us to be good disciples within so that outward manifestations will take care of themselves. In Christ's name we ask. Amen.

TROUBLE IN KOREA

IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Student Mauled By Grizzly Bear

GLACIER, Mont. (AP)—A ferocious grizzly bear jumped and mauled a new employee of the Glacier Park Co. Thursday night on a lonely mountain trail out of this resort.

Joseph L. Williams Jr., 20, of Harvey Cedars, N.J., was reported in critical condition Friday in a hospital at Carston, Alta., Canada. The student of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, suffered claw cuts on the left side of his face and head and on his left leg.

Williams, who was to have started work Friday, and a companion, Robert Winter, 17, of Grosse Pointe City, Mich., were jumped by the grizzly on an after-supper hike. Winter started Tuesday as a cabin porter.

The bear was finally shot and believed to have been killed but the body was not found immediately.

Winter tried to distract the grizzly at first by throwing red shale. Then he raced down Alton Mountain for help.

Park rangers, using flashlights, brought Williams slowly 1,000 feet

Solons Laud Compromise Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) said Friday he would recommend that President Eisenhower sign a newly-drafted $1,375,000,000 compromise housing bill if Congress approves it.

However, smooth sailing for the bill was far from assured. The compromise left members of both parties unsatisfied.

Capehart, senior Republican member of a House-Senate conference committee which completed work on the bill Thursday, said it was a "good compromise".

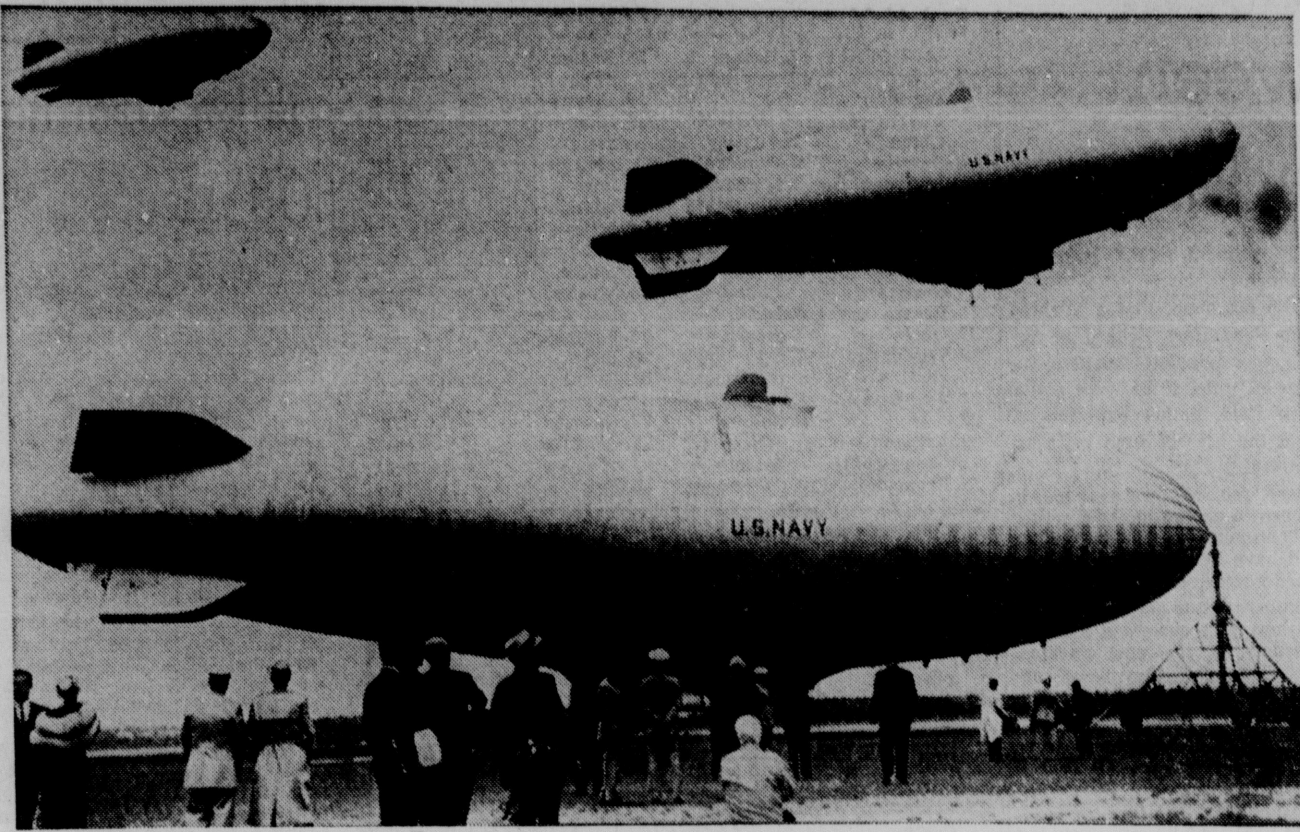

The bill also had the backing of Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), chairman of the conferees, and Rep. Albert Rains (D-Ala.) chairman of a House subcommittee on housing.

Sparkman said the bill was "unusually good." Rains agreed, saying the measure carried a price tag about 400 million dollars under the President's recommendations. The House and Senate originally had passed bills worth more than two billion dollars each.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) said he and Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) would refuse to sign the conference report because the compromise provided too little for urban renewal. Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.), who also refused to sign, said it provided too much.

Among other provisions, the bill would reduce from 15 to 10 per cent the down payment required on FHA mortgages between $15,500 and $18,000. The 3 per cent down payment on loans under $15,500 and the 30 per cent minimum payment on those above $18,000 would be retained.

The bill would merely authorize the various spending programs. Congress would have to pass separate legislation providing the actual cash.

Navy Officials Get Look At New Blimp

U.S. Navy and civilian officials get a look at the first of a new class of airships, the Navy's ZPG-3W (foreground) the largest non-rigid airship ever built, as two older, smaller-type blimps float by overhead at Lakehurst, N. J., Friday. The new airship, one and one-half times larger than its predecessor, the ZPG-2W, is 403-feet long, 118-feet high and is inflated with 1 1/2 million cubic feet of helium. Five Negro Youths Held For Assault

NEW YORK (AP)—Five Negro youths were arrested Friday in the mass schoolyard rape of a 14-year-old white girl. One other Negro youth is sought. She was raped three times.

Special police details were alerted in the Corona section of Queens for possible reprisals against Negroes as a result of the attack there Thursday night. The area is a highly integrated one.

Police said the rape itself was not racial in nature. They passed it off as the efforts of "punk kids" to show off in front of one another. But they feared the brutality of the assault might lead to revenge efforts by whites against Negroes.

The rape victim was a pretty blonde eighth-grader in a Corona junior high school. Police withheld her name.

With three other girls, she left the school shortly after 9 p.m. Thursday after attending a recreation program.

The youths, lounging in the schoolyard, were said to have made obscene remarks to the white girls. Then one of them grabbed the victim, blackened her eye with a punch and dragged her into an alley off the schoolyard.

Despite her hysterical screams for help, the girl was raped in succession by three of the youths while the others held her down and kept a lookout for passersby or school officials.

Meanwhile, the victim's girl companions ran into the school and enlisted the aid of Mrs. Louis Clifford, director of the recreation program. She rushed into the schoolyard and the youths fled.

The girl told police she recognized two of her assailants. With this lead, officers picked up a 14-year-old boy, whom they said played a lookout role. His name was not made public. He was taken to Children's Court in Jamaica and there paroled in the custody of his parents.

With information supplied by the younger boy, police seized a 15-year-old who was charged with juvenile delinquency, and two 16-year-olds and a 17-year-old who were charged with rape. All admitted their part in the crime, police said.

The older boys are Jacob Be-thea and Henry Stokes, both 16, and Edward Jacobs, 17, all students at Brooklyn Automotive School.

The one unidentified youth being sought allegedly is the third of those who actually raped the girl.

Taken To Angola

Sheriff Bailey T. Grant reported yesterday that C. O. Friend, 40, was taken to Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola in a two-year sentence for theft by check.

Friend was returned to Monroe authorities after being apprehended in California. He was originally from the Monroe area.

WEST SPURNS INVITATION

MOSCOW (UPI)—Western diplomats turned down an invitation to attend a reception in honor of the East German delegation visiting Moscow, diplomatic sources said Friday. The Western envoys were said to have regarded the invitation as part of the continuing Communist bid for Western recognition of the East Germans.

Ike To Spend Weekend At Farm Estate

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower flew from Washington Friday for a weekend of golf and relaxation at his country estate. He brought an old friend from the West for an hour's stay.

The friend is Aksel Neilsen of Denver, a mortgage investment executive. Neilsen was a trout rod companion when the President used to vacation in Colorado before his 1953 heart attack.

The chief executive took off with Neilsen from the White House grounds immediately after a hurriedly arranged news conference. Eisenhower read a statement saying the nation was the loser through the Senate's refusal to confirm Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce.

Because of headwinds, three helicopters were used to bring the presidential party and Secret Service agents to Gettysburg. Usually only two are used. Even with the load on each lightened, the trip took 48 minutes, which is about half again the normal travel time. The choppers set down unevenly fully in the field in front of the Eisenhower home.

Accompanied by a Gettysburg friend and neighbor, retired Brig. Gen. Arthur S. Nevins, the President and Neilsen toured the barns and drove through some of the pastures for a look at Eisenhower's Black Angus cattle.

One of the helicopters waited for Neilsen and ferried him back to Washington to catch a plane for Denver.

Afterward, the President had time for lunch and a nap before a midafternoon round of golf at Gettysburg Country Club.

CRUDE OIL STOCKS

Domestic and foreign crude oil stocks this week rose by 1,433,000 barrels over the previous week to 263,164,000 barrels, the Bureau of Mines reported. Texas had 115,988,000 barrels of domestic stock, an increase of 1,954,000 barrels.

Police Car Gives French Minister Ride At Geneva

GENEVA (AP)—Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France had to hitch a ride in a police car during Friday's hectic Big Four rounds.

When he went to a meeting at the villa of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, Couve de Murville dismissed his chauffeur and was without a driver when the session ended abruptly. His interpreter was called upon, but he was unfamiliar with the French minister's car and couldn't get it going.

So the police car, assigned to escort Couve de Murville, gave him a lift back to the French delegation villa where he conferred with other Western ministers. The interpreter turned up later with Couve de Murville's car—after getting a quick explanation of the gear shift.

COST OF LIVING

Living costs edged up to a new all-time high in May, the government reported. Higher prices were reported for all major categories of consumer spending, including food, clothing, housing, medical care and transportation. The Labor Department index showed a rise of one-tenth of a point from April to May.

Dispute Flares Between West Germany Leaders

BONN, Germany (AP) — Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard told Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in effect: "Quit insulting me or I'll resign."

The bitterness between the two most powerful figures in West Germany sprang into the open anew Friday after some remarks about Erhard in an interview by Adenauer with the New York Times.

The Times said Adenauer repeated previous statements that Erhard lacks the political experience for the job of chancellor but is "a very talented man."

The 62-year-old Erhard told a Christian Democrat party caucus that someone obviously Adenauer was "systematically trying to degrade my reputation."

He said he would surrender his Cabinet post unless he is "shielded from further calumny."

The party caucus was called to discuss the Times interview. Adenauer was asked to stay away from the caucus.

Erhard looked dispirited as he emerged from the party meeting. Reporters heard him mumble that this time he was not going to bow to Adenauer. Then he flew off for a long weekend at Zurich, Switzerland.

The next chapter opens Monday when Heinrich Krone, the Christian Democrat floor leader in Parliament, reports on a study comparing the stenographic text of the interview with what appeared in the Times.

Erhard's words to the party caucus were acid. He said the dispute with Adenauer involved the party members as well.

"You not only have the duty to prove your loyalty to the Chancellor which, God knows, you have done in sufficient measure," he said, "but you must bear responsibility before the German people. Today the fate of the party is at stake."

Behind that statement lay two weeks of political turmoil.

It began June 4 when the 83-year-old Adenauer suddenly abandoned his announced candidacy for the ceremonial post of president and decided to stay on as chancellor.

The German press has been almost unanimous in assailing Adenauer's decision.

More than half of Adenauer's party opposed the turnaround and tried to get him to stick to his original choice. Adenauer refused and the party faithful eventually gave in.

Party informants said that behind Adenauer's decision was a desire to keep Erhard from succeeding him. The party had served notice it wanted Erhard.

Adenauer's announced motive was that the world situation had worsened and his hand at the helm was needed in these troubled days.

He reportedly said Erhard, the economist, was as little qualified to be chancellor as he, Adenauer, to be a painter in oils.

Erhard signed a statement saying the party "regrets declarations that tended to damage Erhard's reputation."

So it stood until the Times interview appeared.

Adenauer, the article said, "repeated previous statements that Dr. Erhard was too lacking in political experience for the top job, although he called the minister a 'very talented man.'"

The federal press office got out a statement saying that as reported here the Times article did not contain "the factual contents and the sense of the presentation of Chancellor Adenauer."

The press office quoted Adenauer as telling the interviewer the Chancellor sets foreign policy. "A man can be very good in the economic field and an excellent economics minister without having to be equally experienced in the political field," it quoted Adenauer.

"I do not doubt that a talented person—and Herr Erhard is certainly very talented—would in the course of time, if he were active in this field, gather experiences. But at the present time we must be careful."

These remarks were made in response to a question of whether the continuity of German policy would have been endangered had Erhard become chancellor.

Members of the party told newsmen they were surprised and disheartened by the new developments. They said they were concerned about the party's reputation both at home and abroad.

Franz Boehm, a leader of the liberal wing of the party, went a step further.

He said that if Adenauer were quoted correctly he was guilty of "a violation of the unanimous decision taken by the party caucus last week."

"It is no longer an affair between Adenauer and Erhard," Boehm said, "but an affair between Adenauer and the party."

Prexy Victor In Argentina Grave Crisis

Palermo Park on the outskirts. Motorized units guarded the War Ministry.

A closed-door meeting was held by army, navy and air force commanders and leaders of the 1955 revolution that toppled the dictatorship of ex-President Juan Peron.

They were said to have reached a plan to keep Frondizi in power if he radically alters his policies and ousted officials accused of Peronist and Communist leanings.

Another reported demand was the complete reshuffling of the government and creation of a coalition cabinet, embracing all political parties.

Government sources said Frondizi was preparing a message to the nation to explain his own solution to the crisis.

Reports spread that a military revolt was already under way at Cordoba in the interior, but these could not be confirmed because of storm-damaged communications.

Cordoba has been the center of the current military unrest. The garrison there is reported backed by troops at Campo de Mayo, near Buenos Aires, and Salta, in northern Argentina.

The Cordoba group sparked the latest flareup after charges last week that Frondizi had signed a secret pact with the exiled Peron to get elected.

Despite government denials, army leaders demanded a thorough investigation.

FOR WEST GERMANY

Berlin Selected As Election Site

BONN, Germany (AP) — Bundestag Speaker Eugen Gerstenmaier Friday night officially selected Berlin as the site of the West German presidential election July 1.

Gerstenmaier announced the decision shortly after the Big Four foreign ministers recessed their Geneva conference until July 13.

Earlier, it had been announced that a decision on the election issue would be put off until Tuesday. The Geneva recess move apparently prompted Gerstenmaier's action.

The question of the site of the election has been a stormy issue here.

The West German Foreign Office and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had opposed holding it in Berlin on the ground it might be regarded as a provocative act during the Geneva talks.

The opposition Socialists and Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt wanted the election held in Berlin as planned. They said that to cancel the arrangement for the Electoral College to meet in Berlin would be a surrender to Communist pressure and a blow to the morale of the 2½ million West Berlin residents.

The Communist East Germans have threatened to blockade the city if the elections are held in Berlin.

Hans Kroll, West German ambassador to Moscow, has reported that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told him the Soviets would regard the holding of the election in Berlin as a provocation.

Gerstenmaier's announcement was made in the face of a vote summit meeting, but the West was reluctant to give in. U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding said flatly there can be no decision on a summit conference until the foreign ministers finish their discussions. They will meet again July 13 to try once more to end the crisis.

One final plenary session will be held Saturday Gromyko's request, before the three-week recess begins. The meeting will simply "formalize the recess."

Even agreement on the timing of the recess came only after wrangling. The West wanted to resume July 15. Gromyko insisted on July 13. The West made this one last concession.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville could agree with the Soviet foreign minister only that the ministers should make one more try at settling the Berlin crisis at a new meeting in mid-July.

The three Western ministers met twice Friday with Gromyko in private sessions at the Soviet villa. The first time, they received the new proposals which Khrushchev was making public in a speech at Moscow.

After a one-hour session of their own, they returned to the Soviet villa and there told Gromyko that Russia's plan was unacceptable. They gave the Soviet diplomat a Western crisis declaration.

Western sources pointedly reported that the Western Allies were in "full agreement" to resist the new Soviet threats.

Khrushchev ignored the West's bedrock proposal of last Wednesday that even envisages a cut in the 11,000-man Western garrisons in West Berlin in exchange for guarantees to Western rights in the city.

Khrushchev countered with a new deadline—18 months to clear out of West Berlin and turn it into a "free demilitarized city." This was as unacceptable to the West as had been the original Soviet 12-month deadline.

He demanded recognition of East Germany by the Western powers, by proposing that it have equal voice with West Germany in all-German negotiations for a peace treaty.

East Germany would have equal voice in the negotiations despite the fact that it has only 17 million residents to 53 million in West Germany.

The West said the proposal offered "no new hope." After six weeks, the conference which began May 11 broke up without progress on the Berlin issue which caused the meeting in the first place.

The Western ministers, led by Herter, were grim, unsympathetic and obviously tired as they went to Gromyko's villa for the meetings Friday.

Herter's plane was waiting at Geneva's airport and its crew was prepared to take off within two hours of getting the word from the secretary of state.

Gromyko refused even to accept as a basis for discussion the Western proposals which had been pared down from the original "peace package" on Berlin, German reunification and European security. The original plan had been rejected by Russia last month, just as the West had rejected the original Soviet plan which would have perpetuated the division of Germany and still forced the Allies out of West Berlin.

The Soviets failed to bid for the West's hole card—the promise of a summit conference if the foreign ministers achieved some success.

TENTATIVE SETTLEMENT

Hospital Strikers To Vote On Terms

NEW YORK (AP)—A tentative settlement of the six-week strike of housekeeping employees at seven nonprofit New York hospitals was announced Friday. The peace terms are to be voted on by the 4,000 strikers Monday.

The strike was called May 8 by Local 1199, Retail Drug Employees Union, in a demand for union recognition at Mount Sinai, Beth David, Beth Israel, Lenox Hill, Bronx and Brooklyn Jewish Hospitals. It was extended to Flower-Fifth Avenue Hospital June 5.

Union leaders promised to recommend the tentative peace terms to the strikers. Mayor Robert F. Wagner predicted that "the strike will be settled."

Local President Leon J. Davis said in a statement: "We are

Girl Born Behind Barbed Wire Is Highly Honored

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—Joan Yasui was born behind the barbed wire of the Tule Lake Relocation Camp in California 16 years ago.

That is where her parents were sent from their Hood River, Ore., home when all persons of Japanese descent on the West Coast were locked up.

Her uncle was one of 16 American servicemen of Japanese ancestry whose names were stricken from the Hood River American Legion post honor roll that year.

Joan Friday was the new governor of Oregon Girls State, the organization sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary to teach the workings of government.

Joan's mother, Mrs. Ray T. Yasui, watched proudly as Joan was inaugurated in the Oregon capitol Thursday.

Pretty, petite Joan got an ovation from the other 256 girls who had elected her.

Joan does not remember the wartime hysteria that victimized her friends and relatives. She does know that in 1945 the Hood River post restored the 16 stricken names to the honor roll.

Joan next year will be the student body president of Wy'east High School, the first girl ever to win that honor.

strongly recommending the proposed settlement. It provides a means for the workers, through the union, to handle their problems, including wages and grievances, and sets the stage for building a means for the workers, through the union, to handle their problems, including wages and grievances, and sets the stage for building a powerful union in every voluntary hospital in the city."

Davis' optimism far surpassed that of a month ago when a prior tentative settlement of the strike was reached. On that occasion, the strikers voted 1,784-14 to continue the strike.

Terms of the latest proposed settlement were not revealed. But presumably a measure of recognition was provided for the union. Lack of any such recognition killed the original settlement pact.

Recognition is a prelude to union bargaining for a contract that would include increases in wages that now are as low as $25 a week for orderlies, nurses aides, elevator operators, kitchen workers and maintenance employees.

Professional hospital staff members—doctors and nurses—are not involved in the dispute.

The struck hospitals were not seriously affected by the strike. They hired replacement employees or made use of volunteers or supervisory help to keep schedules going.

The seven struck hospitals have about 3,400 beds, or only about 6 1/2 per cent of the city's total of 50,000 hospital beds. They are among 81 so-called voluntary hospitals in the city, which, because of their

U.S. OFFICIALS REPORT

Living Costs Hit New Record High

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Living costs climbed to another all-time high last month under the pressure of seasonal price increases in nearly every major category of consumer spending, the government reported Friday.

The Labor Department said that its consumer price index, which uses 1947-49 prices as a base, rose one tenth of a point to a May peak of 124.0. The previous record of 123.9 was set in July, 1958, and equalled in April.

Contributing to the rise were higher price tags on food, clothing, housing, medical care and transportation.

The May rise means a one-cent an hour wage increase for some 100,000 aircraft workers whose pay is tied to the cost of living index.

The Labor Department also reported that the average take-home pay and purchasing power of factory workers also climbed to a new record high last month.

The average weekly wage of a worker with three dependents was $81.03, about 9 per cent higher in both dollars and purchasing power than a year ago.

The May price index was three-tenths of one percentage point higher than in May, 1958.

However, Labor Department price chief H. E. Riley labelled the rise as seasonal. He said that "for all practical purposes" it did not upset the stability that the cost of living has displayed for the past year.

Riley said the index has dipped in May only once in the past 12 years and has held steady another time. It rose in other years in question and Riley predicted this year's rise would be followed by the customary autumn decline.

But he expected higher gasoline and cigarette taxes going into effect in several states to put upward pressure on the index.

The department said food prices rose slightly in May after declining in eight of the nine previous months. It attributed the rise of one-tenth of 1 per cent to higher prices for restaurant meals, fresh fruits and vegetables.

The food rise would have been larger except for the 6.4 per cent drop in egg prices, the eighth straight monthly decline. Coffee prices dropped for the 18th straight month.

Higher prices were reported for oranges, bananas, grapefruit, apples, potatoes, tomatoes, celery and canned orange juice. Most meat prices rose, more than offsetting lower tags on chicken and fish.

Higher prices for men's hair cuts were reported in several cities. The cost of gasoline, tires, and new automobile prices declined, but used cars, auto repairs, and auto insurance were higher.

Slayer Of Boy, 3, Sentenced To Training School

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Edward J. Cooney Jr., 15-year-old honor student with "poor judgment and lack of foresight," was sentenced Friday to a state industrial school for the strangulation of 3-year-old Becky Holt.

Judge J. Sydney Hoffman ordered that Cooney be given psychiatric treatment before being sent to the industrial school at Camp Hill, Pa., for an indefinite term to extend at least until he is 21 years old.

Hoffman's decision, based on psychiatric reports, received the "complete" agreement of Dist. Atty. Victor Blanc.

The court-appointed psychiatrists were agreed that Cooney, who confessed the killing, can be rehabilitated with proper treatment.

Cooney killed Becky in the basement of his home last June 4. His confession said he was overcome by a "sudden urge" when the child followed his dog into the house. He surrendered to police seven hours after confessing the crime to a priest at his parish church.

Earlier, Blanc said he would not seek to try Cooney for murder.

Long's Condition Is Reported Same

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Here is the first bulletin issued by the Department of Hospitals on Gov. Earl Long, signed by Director Jesse Bankston:

Governor Long's condition has not changed today.

His commitment to the hospital for observation, diagnosis and treatment has placed the responsibility for his care in the hands of our capable staff and the Department of Hospitals. This is now a medical responsibility and all of our activities will be directed toward his recovery.

All visitations, telephone calls and other contacts with him will be prescribed by his physicians. We shall be guided by the advice of the staff physicians and other medical consultants whom the governor may choose, to assure that his progress as a patient will be maintained. We are confident the people of Louisiana will cooperate in observing the medical directives which are essential for his well being.

Southwest Louisiana Hospital was opened in 1952. It is modern in every respect. We are proud of the facilities for the care and treatment of patients and also of the part that this hospital is playing in the training of mental health specialists and in research into problems of mental illness. The hospital is affiliated with the LSU and Tulane schools of medicine, with the LSU and Tulane schools of social work, the LSU department of psychology and Southwest Louisiana Institute school of nursing. These affiliations are indicative of the high quality of care the hospital is capable of giving to its patients.

Louisiana mental health laws give the patient certain legal rights and privileges. We expect

South Monore Being Served By Bookunit

South Monore is served by a mobile library each Friday.

The Ouachita Parish "Bookmobile" halts at designated locations along a southside route, to furnish books for those unable to reach the main library easily.

"We're doing it because we don't have a library on the southside of town right now," pointed out Miss Frances Flanders, librarian.

She was quick to add, "But by next summer, we hope to have the Anna Meyer branch library constructed at 418 Jackson Street."

On alternating Friday mornings, the Bookmobile covers the Plum Street - Jefferson Junior High area; the Barkdull Faulk school area on south Jackson; and the Lida Benton school section on Lee Avenue.

Friday afternoons, from 1-3:30 p.m., the Bookmobile is parked at the old library location, at the corner of Jackson and Calypso Streets.

The Bookmobile starts operations at 8 a.m. and continues until noon each Friday. Next Friday, the Plum Street area will be covered. The busload of books will halt at Plum Street School from 8 to 9 a.m., move to Jefferson Junior High at 9, and then halt at several different residential locations.

"Exact routing of the Bookmobile is available for anyone who wishes to call the library, FA 3-6647," Miss Flanders noted.

Pecan Group Officers

Northeast Louisiana Deaths

JOSEPH DALTON COSTELLO — DELHI (Special) — Funeral services will be held at Flora Baptist Church, Flora, Miss. Sunday at 3 p.m. for Joseph Dalton Costello, 77, who died at his daughter's residence in Rayville, Thursday afternoon. Interment will follow in Lula Cemetery, Yazoo City, Miss. with The Rev. Stovall officiating.

The body was carried from Flora to Yazoo City, where it was transferred to Strickland and Kings Funeral Home, by Gay's of Delhi.

Survivors are two sons, R. M. Costello, Flora, L. V. Costello, Pom Panto Beach, Florida; one daughter, Mrs. E. E. Johns, Rayville; 11 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Palbearers will be his nephews.

MRS. AZALY CRUSE

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Funeral services for Mrs. Azaly Cruse, 78, who died at her home at Bernice Thursday after a short illness, will be held 10-30 a.m. Saturday, at the Shiloh Baptist Church near Bernice.

The Rev. E. L. Tanner will officiate, and interment will follow in the church cemetery by Kilpatrick's Funeral Home of Farmerville.

Survivors are two sons, Jesse Cruse, West Monroe, and Earl Cruse, Farmerville; a daughter, Mrs. Lottie Johnson, Bernice; and 16 grandchildren.

MRS. FANNIE WALSWORTH

JONESBORO (Special) — Final rites for Mrs. Fannie Walsworth, 63-year-old Jonesboro resident who died at her home Thursday after a long illness, were held yesterday with the Revs. Norman Tyson and C. S. Martin officiating. Interment was in Springhill Cemetery by Edmonds Funeral Home.

Mrs. Walsworth was a lifelong resident of Jackson Parish.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. W. B. Turner, Quitman; three sons, Edward and Alvin, both of Jonesboro, and Alcom, Annabell, Va.; a sister, Mrs. Maggie Miles, Greensburg, Ore., and 10 grandchildren.

MRS. MABEL GUTHRIE — TALLULAH (Special) — Services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday for Mrs. Mabel Guthrie, 88, who died Thursday in a Winnsboro nursing home after a long illness. She was a former resident of Tallulah and a member of the Methodist Church.

The Rev. Shaw will conduct the rites at Crothers Funeral Chapel. Burial will be in the Legion Memorial Cemetery at Newellton.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. O. W. Rushing, Atlanta, Ga.; a son, T. H. Johnson, Douglas, Ga., and a grandson.

New Budgetary System Praised

The City of Monroe, now operating under a new budgetary system, has an "excellent picture" of its expenses, Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard reported yesterday.

Howard said the city put the new system into effect for the first time in May.

During that time, the city spent $184,099.13 to operate on and lived within the budget.

Under the new plan, all department spending must come through the city purchasing agent.

ANNUAL SESSION

Officers Named At Pecan Meet

Named president of the Louisiana Pecan Growers' Association, in session here yesterday, was J. B. Caldwell of Bastrop.

Arthur N. Sample of Shreveport was named vice president, with John Cox of Baton Rouge as secretary-treasurer. W. Allen Meadows of Baton Rouge was named senior horticulturist with LSU's extension service.

In a talk before the group, Sidney J. McCrory, state commissioner of agriculture, outlined what he termed the lack of attention being given the annual Louisiana pecan crop.

He said that the cash value of the pecan crop last year was $4,130,000 a figure that almost equalled the combined income from all citrus products and vegetables raised in the state during the same period.

The commissioner said that his department is willing to go to Washington in order to get more money for research in this field of agriculture from a Congress which he considers to be neglecting the pecan farmer in general.

COMMENDED

He also commended the association for the work it has done with "limited funds."

H. C. Sanders, director of the LSU agricultural extension service, commented that he was entirely in accord with McCrory's statements and added that "if agriculture ever needed a friend, it needs one now."

Sanders declared that agriculture cannot be denied adequate subsidization and allowed to bear the brunt of the ups and downs of the economic world today.

Panel discussions on producing high yields of good quality pecans and combating bunch disease, and on how to prepare pecans for market, were held during the session.

Talks on bunch disease, promoting pecan production and fertilizer experiments were also included. Following a noon barbecue, delegates to the confab watched a demonstration of machinery and equipment.

It was announced that the Federated Pecan Growers' Association which met earlier this year proposed that a joint meeting of all pecan growing states be held sometime next year.

The Southeastern Pecan Growers' Association recently implemented this idea by inviting all pecan growers' groups to meet jointly Feb. 28-March 1 of next year in Natchez, Miss.

Members of the Louisiana group were urged to attend.

FHA LOANS

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard received word yesterday that the Federal Housing Administration has issued four conditional commitments for loans in Monroe.

The loans were made to persons whose homes will be in the path of the federal highway. The loans are for $9,000 each.

Postoffice Wins First Safety

Award Presented

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Winnsboro postoffice has scored a first in the country.

A certificate recognizing 447,162 man-hours, covering a period of 14 years, without an accident was awarded the Winnsboro postoffice by the National Safety

Earns Honors

Robby Ray Brady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Brady, who resided in Chatham until 1956 when they moved to Woodland, Calif., received three of the highest honors that could be attained scholastically — national merit scholarship certificate; California State scholarship for $600 for four years; and Bank of America Award as outstanding student in Laboratory Science. He will attend the University of California.

Council, it was learned Friday. Postmaster Roy M. Taylor, immediate past president of the Louisiana postmasters association, received the award from George A. Gray, regional operations director, of Dallas.

Gray said it was the first time that any postoffice had ever received a safety award.

The Winnsboro postoffice went without an accident from May 1, 1944 to December 31, 1958.

WALKER SECOND

Jaycee Golf Title To Steve Henry

Glen Walker Jr. fired the tournament's best round—a 76—but steady Steve Henry eased home with an 81 to win the 14th annual Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament at Municipal by two strokes.

Henry shot consistent rounds of 79-80-81 to win with a 240 total. Walker, tied for second as yesterday's round opened seven strokes behind Henry, ended up second with 83-83-76-242.

Tournament medalist Gene Adams had 78-80-78-246 for third and Max Cagnolatti was fourth with 87-83-77-247.

Henry, Walker, Adams and Cagnolatti thus qualified to enter the state Jaycee tourney at Jonesboro July 14-17. Qualifiers in the state meet will be eligible to enter the national tournament in Portsmouth, Virginia, Aug. 22-29.

Henry, although hitting two out of bounds, made three birdies in yesterday's final round. The lanky golfer was a member of Neville's state championship golf team during the past school year.

Ray Mulhearn won the junior division championship by two strokes over Raymond Winn. Mulhearn had a 90-97-92-289 total to Winn's 99-103-99-301.

Winn, however, won the tournament's hole-in-one contest with a shot within 16 feet of the cup.

Krishnan Upsets Olmedo In London Championships

By MARK ANDREWS

LONDON (AP) — Unheralded Ramanathan Krishnan of India scored one of the season's biggest upsets Friday when he defeated top-seeded Alex Olmedo in the semifinals of the London Lawn Tennis Championships. The score was 8-6, 6-1.

The 22-year-old Indian Saturday will meet Neale Fraser, Australia's No. 1 player, who ousted a fellow countryman, Frank Gorman, 6-4, 6-3. Gorman put out Olmedo's U.S. Davis Cup teammate, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, Thursday.

The Peruvian Olmedo, favored for the men's title in the Wimbledon Tournament starting Monday, disappointed a gallery of 1,000 with his listless, careless play.

Alex never once looked like the brilliant shotmaker who almost single-handedly won the Davis Cup for the United States last December.

Renowned for his court lapses, he served double-faults at critical times. His shots carried none of their usual pace. In the second set, particularly he dumped ball after ball into the net on easy chances.

"It wasn't my day," a dejected Olmedo said. "Krishnan played very well and it was the first time I had seen him in action. It was certainly an eye opener."

Krishnan is a phlegmatic, sturdily built young man whose tennis exploits have been confined largely to his own country although he has travelled and played widely. In 1958 he led his team to the Davis Cup inter-zone finals where he almost beat America's Herbie Flam.

He has beaten such players as Budge Patty, Jaroslav Drobný and Ulf Schmidt but in several appearances at Wimbledon has never progressed to the latter rounds. He is unseeded this year.

Krishnan, a powerful hitter with a deceptive flat forehand, never let Olmedo get going.

In the women's singles, Yola Ramirez of Mexico defeated Ruia Morrison of New Zealand 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. Her final opponent is Christine Mercelis of Belgium, who advanced when Lea Pericoli of Italy strained a muscle in her right foot and had to withdraw. Miss Mercelis was leading 6-1, 3-0 at the time.

Texas University outfielder George Myers, a 210-pound slugger standing 6-foot-3, plans to try professional baseball after graduation.

The loss was Farmerville's fifth against one victory.

Crampton Grabs Lead In Canadian Open With 135

MONTREAL (AP) — Bruce Crampton, a curly-haired 23-year-old Australian who hasn't had much success this year in his annual golfing tour of America, grabbed the lead at the halfway point of the Canadian Open Friday with a 36-hole score of 135.

Crampton shot a 5-under-par 67 on his second round over the 6,695-yard, par 36-72 Islesmere course after an opening 68. He moved out one stroke ahead of three of the top performers of the U.S. pro circuit—PGA champion Dow Finsterwald, Art Wall Jr., the Masters champion and leading money winner this year, and bespectacled Bob Rosburg, runner-up in the U.S. Open last week. All three had scores of 67-69-137.

Angular Al Balding of Markham, Ont., the first day leader with 66, slipped to 75 for a two-day total of 141.

Crampton, son of a Sydney policeman, warmed up with the

PHILS BEAT CUBS

Anderson's Blast Beats Anderson

CHICAGO (AP)—Harry Anderson's three-run homer off Chicago's Bob Anderson in a four-run first propelled the Philadelphia Phils to an 8-7 victory over the Cubs Friday.

Towering Gene Conley, first of three Philly hurlers, notched the victory, his fourth against three defeats. Anderson was the loser, now with a 3-6 record.

Philadelphia's Ed Bouchee hit a solo homer for the first of two Philly runs in the fourth.

Ernie Banks paced the Cubs' 12-hit attack, driving across three runs with a first inning double and his 19th homer in the sixth after Lee Walls singled.

Banks now has 67 RBI to lead both major leagues.

After the Cubs nicked Conley for two runs in the first, the ex-brave right-hander rationed the Chicagoans to one hit over the next four innings.

Conley, however, was chased when the Cubs spurted for four

New Orleans Tops Minors In Attendance

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — New Orleans — where organized baseball seemed on the brink of death last year — has won the minor leagues' 1959 attendance derby.

Attendance at Thursday night's game brought the season total for the Pelicans of the Southern Assn. Beyond the club's draw for a complete season in 1958.

As the first club to accomplish the feat, New Orleans will receive the Grand Sweepstakes Trophy of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues. The trophy is presented by The Sporting News on behalf of the association.

Association President George M. Trautman, announcing the award Friday, said he has wired congratulations to the New Orleans club and Mayor Delesseps Morrison.

Trautman was heartened particularly because New Orleans is operating this season as an independent, without major league affiliation.

Attendance to date in 1959 is 50,936. Admissions in all of 1958 totalled 50,369.

Lions Get Allen From Washington

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions Friday obtained center John Allen from the Washington Redskins in exchange for a 1960 National Football League draft choice.

Allen is a four-year veteran with Washington and shared the offensive center position with Jim Schradler the past two seasons.

The 26-year-old, 6-foot-2, 230-pound lineman is a former Purdue player and a native of Fremont, Ohio.

weather after Thursday's rainy opening. He went out in 33 with three birdies and came back in 34.

"Good Australian sun," he said as he walked off the 18th green. "I think now that my blood has warmed up I'll play better."

"I was putting quite well today and I was driving well."

Two strokes back of the leader were Doug Ford of Crystal River, Fla., and Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla. Ford, former Masters and PGA winner, had a 69 and Hebert a 68.

Next in line with 138s were Walker Inman Jr. of Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., who divides his time between the pro circuit and a club job; Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., and Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill.

Inman had the day's best round, a 66. Fairfield posted his second 69 and Maxwell had a 70.

Semi-Finals Slated Today In Four-Ball

Semi-finals in the club four-ball golf tournament will be held today at Bayou DeSiard Country Club with Ivy Jordan and Bob Carson meeting Ed Harper and H. W. McSherry and Foster Wallace and Curtis Nichols taking on Smokey and Jim Harper.

DeSiard pro Winnie Cole said the course's back nine, closed since April 20, would be open for play at one this afternoon and the semi-finalists would compete over the full 18 holes instead of playing the first nine twice.

The back nine greens have been converted to Tifton 328 grass, a hybrid bermuda used widely on putting greens in the south.

Also scheduled today in connection with the four-ball tourney is the sweepstakes, Cole said.

The summary:

Quarter-final results: Ivy Jordan and Bob Carson beat Joe Goyne and Burt Sperry, 1 up; Ed Harper and H. W. McSherry beat Cam Minard and Jim Sherman, 1 up; Foster Wallace and Curtis Nichols beat Curtis Cook and Bish Johnson, 2 up; Smokey Harper and Jim Harper over Stanley Bagwell and Carroll Woods Jr., 2 and 1.

Semi-final pairings: Jordan-Carson vs. Harper-McSherry; Wallace-Nichols vs. vs. Harper-Harper.

Moseley Upset In Southeastern Tennis Tourney

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — John Pickins of Tuscaloosa, runner-up in the boys division last year, upset No. 2 seeded Dean Moseley of Baton Rouge, La., in the second round of the Southeastern Junior Invitational Tennis Tournament. The score was 6-3, 7-9, 7-5.

Others in the division, for boys 15 years and under, advancing to the semi finals include Ham Magill, Athens, Ga., Jim Beste, Baton Rouge, and Chris Brown of Chattanooga, Tenn.

In the junior division, the only upset in Thursday's matches was by Speed Howell, who defeated Ernest Cox of Mobile, fourth seeded, 6-0, 6-1.

Other semi finalists in this division are Don Caton of Pensacola, who is top seeded and defending champion, Doug Stewart of Anniston, and Andy Lloyd, second seeded, from Shreveport, La.

Beste had a first round bye before defeating Hank Garrett of Montgomery, 6-1, 6-0.

In the junior division, Stewart defeated Allen Vest of Jackson, Miss., by default and then beat Charles Benedict of Atlanta, 6-3, 8-6.

Lloyd defeated Kenny Wallis of Birmingham, 6-3, 8-6 and Don Sweeney of Birmingham, 6-1, 6-2.

Zeke Bella Hits Head On Dugout

BALTIMORE (AP) — Outfielder Zeke Bella of Kansas City was knocked out Friday when he hit his head on a concrete abutment of the Athletics' dugout.

The accident happened in the second inning of the first game during a Baltimore-Kansas City twin-night doubleheader.

Bella, leadoff batter in the inning, had flied out to Albie Pearson in center field and was running into the Kansas City dugout when he hit his head. He was knocked unconscious and carried into the clubhouse on a stretcher.

Bella complained of blurred vision and was taken to Union Memorial Hospital for X rays

Torres To Meet Al Andrews On Title Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Jose Torres, undefeated Puerto Rican middleweight, will meet Al Andrews of St. Paul, Minn., in the semifinal event of the heavyweight chamampionship fight June 25 at Yankee Stadium.

Promoter Bill Rosensohn, making the announcement Friday, said the two middleweights would clash in a 10-rounder prior to Floyd Patterson's heavyweight title defense against Sweden's Ingemar Johansson.

Andrews is a tough middleweight who has met the best of his class.

Terrorists In Cuba To Face Firing Squad

HAVANA (UPI)—The revolutionary government said Friday that persons found guilty of terrorist acts would be liable to the death penalty. The announcement was made by Justice Minister Alfredo Yarbunals to sentence the terrorists to death by firing squads.

mejeiras attributed the increase in terrorism to former army men who served under ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista. He said some captured terrorists bore documents confirming they were engaged in counter-revolutionary activities.

"We are alert and will answer their aggression with characteristic firmness," Almejeiras said.

Police, meanwhile, investigated what appeared to be an attempt to sabotage a big vehicular and pedestrian bridge across a railway in Havana's railway terminal.

Station night watchman Francisco Esteban, 32, was found so seriously beaten and injured that he had been unable to testify.

Two Youths Held At New Orleans For Burglaries

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Police here are holding two New York youths in connection with a series of house burglaries and auto thefts in the West Lake and Gentilly areas.

Police Sgt. Chas. Newman said the two, David John Diello, 18, of Syracuse and Frank Vonn, 17, of Brooklyn, were being questioned in connection with about 20 house burglaries and the theft of eight cars.

They were captured Wednesday by police after a bullet-punctured chase here. Sgt. Newman and City Detectives Joseph Tardo said the men held had admitted burglarizing a residence at Elmira, N.Y., and also theft of an automobile in New York.

The two were booked on charges of aggravated burglary pending completion of the investigation.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Mrs. J. J. Potts Entertains For Local Guests

Mrs. John Potts was hostess early this week to the guests of Mrs. John Sherrouse.

The entertainment was a luncheon at the Lotus Club and the guests included Mrs. Frank Mouso of Oklahoma City and Mrs. Herman von Kaas of Milwaukee, Mrs. William King Stubbs, Mrs. John Theus and Mrs. G. W. Wallace.

The New Glass Is A Delight To Homemaker

Today's bride delights in receiving home accessories, particularly those that can function for a multiplicity of uses. The new American handcrafted glass is designed to make life easier and prettier for the new homemaker. Not only will the bride love receiving a glass gift... what is more important, she will enjoy using it.

The present you select is a symbol of your personal interest and affection. It doesn't necessarily have to be expensive to be appreciated, but it should be chosen so that it can be used and enjoyed for a long period of time. Glass, a wonderfully welcome gift, offers a variety of items to choose from. A glass accessory piece, beautifully shaped and colored to fit into the new home's decor, can be used by a bride as a focus to build an entire room around. Crystal jugs or pitchers are made for every purpose, from martinis and milk to iced tea or a floral arrangement.

Think of storage space, too, when you make your choice. If living quarters are going to be limited, pick out something that can do more than one job. A beautifully handcrafted salad bowl can also hold a fruit or flower arrangement on a coffee table, and will never require shelf room. Free-form glass bowls are another joy: to hold flowers, fruit, nuts, or just packs of cigarettes on the living room table. Newly introduced stack tumblers (13 oz. highball or iced tea; 9 oz. water; 5 oz. juice; and cordial) take up only the space you would allot to one tall glass. A pair of handsome candlesticks is another good choice. When not in use on the table, they can take their place on a chest, console or mantel. Every home needs ashtrays, and a pair of the large, shaped cracked glass ones would be a smart-looking addition to any room.

Undoubtedly one of the most delightful things about American handcrafted glass pieces is the individuality it offers. Since each piece is made by the skilled eye and hand of a craftsman, it has natural variations, making it completely personal.

Conversational Hour Honors Miss Webb

Mrs. Frances Alexander Robinson complimented Miss Margaret Webb with a conversational hour in her home on Cooper street in Tallulah.

The honoree chose for this occasion a blue two-piece cotton suit with matching accessories of gray and wore a corsage presented by her hostess, Miss Webb was also given a present of her chosen silver.

The living room and den were decorated with early summer flowers. The tea table overlaid with pink linen atop a candy stripe floor length ruffle, had as the central decor a miniature doll bride. Presiding at the table was Mrs. George M. Webb, who was assisted in serving by Mrs. Myles Hopkins and Mrs. John W. Carpenter.

Those attending this courtesy for Miss Webb were her mother, Mrs. G. W. Webb, Mrs. Hugh Montgomery, Mrs. George M. Webb, Miss Alma Maxwell, Mrs. Don Sevier, Mrs. J. R. Garrett, Mrs. R. W. Gandy, Jr., Mrs. John W. Carpenter, Mrs. Vert Sevier, Mrs. J. G. Wyly, Mrs. W. F. Powell, Mrs. H. C. Sevier, Miss Addison Brooks, Mrs. Robert Todd, Mrs. Mary Louise Emrick of Mobile, Alabama, and Miss Mary Jane Jackson of Vicksburg.

Colors And Textures Concern New Homemaker

BETTY PEPIS ANSWERS

Q.—The living room in my new home measures 18 by 13 feet. It contains a cream and green barrel chair, mahogany occasional chair with burgandy seat, walnut nest of tables. The floor is covered with a maroon oriental rug. The fireplace is red brick, surrounded by knotty pine wall and bookcases. A picture window nearly covers one wall. Woodwork is birch. What colors do you suggest for walls, two chairs at the fireplace, couch, draperies? Can I mix Danish with overstuffed furniture?

A.—Paint the walls and the birch woodwork cream. I have a feeling the birch and pine may be too much wood for a room that size. Two chairs at the fireplace could pick up one of the colors in the Oriental rug—a pale green perhaps, and the couch could be darker green. Have draperies to match the walls. With overstuffed furniture I would prefer modern pieces with Danish designs. If you want to add any new wood pieces, I would suggest selecting pine that blends with the wood bookcase wall.

Q.—I have a small bedroom I want to repaint. It is now done in a pink color the shade of cotton candy. Wall-to-wall carpeting is aqua and draperies are white ground with design of pink and aqua. What color can I use that will keep the room from looking so light and yet not make it seem smaller? The pink walls seem to reflect light and my husband who works nights and sleeps days says the room is uncomfortably bright.

A.—Try a very pale shade of aqua. It will not only absorb light but because it is a cool color will actually make the room look larger.

Q.—I have a small living room 11 by 12 feet with a 9 foot ceiling. A daybed is black with gold and gray threads. One chair is charcoal, also with gold threads. A second chair is red. What colors for walls, ceiling, draperies? I need end and coffee tables and lamps. Would blond tables be in good taste?

A.—Paint wall behind the sofa pink and ceiling pink. All other walls should be white. This will make the room look larger and ceiling lower. Match draperies to wall on which they hang (pink or white). Blond tables are in perfectly good taste but in this small room I think brass based tables with white milk glass tops would look better. Add either milk glass or brass lamps with white shades in either case.

Q.—My bedroom wallpaper is black with large pink orchids tied with green ribbons. Furniture is reddish mahogany, lamps are crystal with white shades. Please suggest draperies, bedspreads, rug and the kind of chair that would fit.

A.—I would concentrate on white. Try white fishnet draperies, a white machine-made lace spread. Get an old fanback wicker chair and finish this is white, too. Green rugs to match the ribbons in the wallpaper would be a nice finishing touch.

Miss Patsy Doane Feted With Parties

Mrs. W. D. Bates and Mrs. W. O. Webb were hostesses at a bridesmaid's luncheon honoring Miss Patsy Doane, bride-elect of LeRoy Hafner, on Friday, June 19th at 12:30 p.m.

The occasion took place at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club in the private dining room. The color scheme was pink and white with arrangements of magnolias and gardenias.

The table was centered with a silver and crystal epergne in which were gardenias, surrounded by pink candles.

The honoree wore a pink linen sheath with white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Guests present were Miss Marla Amrhein, Miss Faye Parker, Miss Carolyn Futrell, Mrs. H. F. Amrhein, Mrs. C. L. Dillingham, Mrs. W. N. Reynolds, Mrs. M. E. Stevens, Mrs. H. D. Hales, and Mrs. L. G. Wilkinson, mother of the bride.

A gift of the bride's silver was given her by the hostesses.

Wedding Party Entertained In Ruston

Miss Martha Jane Mitchell and Jimmy King, whose wedding was solemnized on Tuesday night in Ruston, were honored with a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Swearingen on Friday, June 12 at 7 o'clock. Hostesses for this occasion were Miss Esther Lu McFarland, Miss Carolyn Swearingen and Miss Delores DeLoach, who were attendants in the wedding.

The party took place on the spacious lawn, and hurricane lamps were arranged in a semi-circular design upon the long table covered with white damask. The centerpiece was a lovely arrangement of white roses in a low container.

Guests present for this event were: Miss Ranelle Carnahan, Sammy White, Miss Elizabeth Sachs, Jerry Drewett, Miss Dianne Williamson, Roland Jackson, Miss Ellen Riser, Wiley Hilburn, Robert Barham, James Magee, Henry Shirley, Bob Garlow, Albert Lazarus and the hostesses.

Mrs. Mathieu Is Honoree At Shower

The home of Mrs. W. W. Terry in Delhi was the scene of a pink and blue shower on June 11th, honoring Mrs. Thomas S. Mathieu. Arrangements of colorful summer blossoms were used on the mantel, coffee table and in the dining room. The refreshment table was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with lace. From this point, embossed petit fours and punch were served. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Terry were Mesdames P. A. Wilks, Lee Cook, Homer Hartley and Hershel Morris.

Guests included Mesdames David Bell, Elizabeth Patterson, F. L. O'Neal, Claude Harrell, J. B. Smith, Sr., Byrd Danies, Glen McCart, Adene Bradley, Theron Loftin, Bob Region, T. N. Underwood and Miss Sue Smith.

MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED Your Baby

The present day attitude toward what used to be called "constipation" is a very healthy one. When a baby of long ago missed a daily movement, he was immediately dosed with something because he was "constipated." Sometimes anxious mothers gave a laxative every Saturday night on the mistaken notion that it was good for the child to have a good cleaning out.

We know better than that now. The conscientious parent is very slow to call a baby constipated, even if he has a movement only once in two or three days. She is more concerned if the stool when passed is dry and hard and small in amount. Then she may decide, not that the baby needs a laxative, but that he may need a change or improvement in his diet.

The nursing baby has soft stools, pasty rather than firm and so no matter how many days pass the stool is almost always of this consistency. The bottle-fed baby has a formed stool of darker color and more inclined to hardness if the formula is not exactly suited to the baby.

Usually an alteration in the proportions of milk, water and sugar will do the trick; if not, maybe a different kind of sugar might be more successful, or the baby may be old enough to take prune juice or prune pulp both of which are very laxative.

The nursing baby whose gain is adequate needs nothing at all. Later if he still has stools at too infrequent intervals an increase in the bulky foods he gets, such as fruits and vegetables and cereals will help to change these habits.

See Doctor

When there is persistent lack of normal evacuation and it is plain from the type of stools that these are "constipated" ones, take it up with your doctor. It is a mistake to give a child constant enemas, or laxatives of any type. The way to correct such poor

Puppy Is Fatally Kicked, English Judge Fines Man

HUDDERSFIELD, England (AP)—John Ford Robertson saw a neighbor's puppy chasing his infant son toward a main road. He kicked the puppy, and it died 10 minutes later.

Robertson told a court Friday. "I am sorry for what I've done. I was thinking of my son's life."

But Magistrate, Mrs. E.C.D. Tinker called it "one of the most shocking cases I've heard in years." She fined Robertson the equivalent of $56 plus $26.46 in costs.

Hearing For Gas Case Postponed

West Monroe's gas case, which originally was set for a hearing in Baton Rouge yesterday, was postponed, Mayor J. Allan Norris said.

Norris said he and City Attorney John McCormick made the trip to be present for the hearing but were told that due to a crowded docket the hearing would not be held at the scheduled time.

The mayor said Baton Rouge officials told him they would notify him when a new hearing date is set, probably late next month or in early August.

ANN LANDERS Your Problems

Dear Ann: I'm only 17 but my problem is as serious as those of many adults who write to you.

Mom and Dad were divorced when I was 12. My brother who was then 15 got to choose the parent he wanted to live with. He chose Dad. If they had given me a choice, I would have gone with Dad, too, but they decided a girl needs her mother.

I happen to know that Mom got a pretty big settlement, big enough so she'll never have to go to work. She also got the house and Dad pays the taxes on it every year. In addition to this, Mom gets $200 a month support money to take care of me.

I haven't had a new pair of shoes or a new dress since Easter of 1957. If Dad didn't send me money for birthdays, Christmas, Valentine's Day and Easter I wouldn't have a cent to buy bobby pins or notebook paper.

Mom has a '58 convertible, beautiful clothes and she just bought a string of furs. She can lose $10 at the bridge table but I have to wear her old Spring coat because "there's no money." She says food is very high.

I'm getting to hate her because I know she's not being fair to me. I don't want to tattle to Dad because it would shake him up something awful. What can I do? —RAGGEDY ANN

Dear Raggedy Ann: By all means shake your dad up. You should have let him know before this. From the information in your letter I suspect there's a little hanky panky with the support money. Food costs are high, but not THAT high.

Dear Ann: I'm a bachelor who works the 12 to 8 shift at a large industrial plant. It seems this shift is the very special choice of the married women. After keeping my eyes and ears open a while I learned why.

During coffee breaks there's so much pairing off around here it isn't even funny. The poor single gals don't get much of a break. The married women are busy battling their eyes and making with the chummy talk.

I just wonder what the husbands think goes on at these places? Their wives have the situation pretty well taped. Hubby is stuck at home with the kids and Ma is out living it up. Not bad. One day these men will get smart and make their old ladies stay at home where they belong. —FOOL-ME-NOT

Dear Fool: Boy that's what I call "living it up" — a mother who must do her house work, ironing and washing, mending, cooking, shopping, and then she gets the rare privilege of putting in 8 hours every night at a factory?

How lucky can she get? I'll guarantee you that 99 women out of 100 on the graveyard shift would just love to be at home, and if Pa were able to swing it financially she'd be very happy indeed.

Dear Ann: My in-laws are wrecking our marriage. We were married four months ago and now my husband is in the service. He's stationed 100 miles from home and it's a real problem. He wants me to come to the base every weekend he's free. It's easier than wasting his time traveling. I've never been able to go alone yet. His mother and dad always insist on driving me. They stick like glue every minute.

Parents have rights, too, but what about us? My husband is as sick of this as I am. What can we do? — NEVER ALONE

Dear Never: It's your husband's place to ask his parents to arrive a day later, or skip a couple weekends. It's difficult to imagine that they have such poor memories. Surely they were once newly weds. It's your husband's place to speak up.

Court To Decide Custody Battle Over Children

NEW YORK (AP) — Hearings ended Friday in the court fight between actress-heiress Gloria Vanderbilt and her former husband, Leopold Stokowski, symphony conductor, over custody of their two children.

State Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Nathan Jr. did not indicate when he would give his decision.

Stokowski sought to increase his custodial rights to the children, Stan, 8, and Chris, 7, and his former wife sought to curtail them.

The mother, now Mrs. Sidney Lumet, wife of a television director, appeared before the court at Friday's session, reportedly as a rebuttal witness. Nathan conducted the hearings behind closed doors "in the interests of the welfare" of the children.

FLOODS IN INDIA

CALCUTTA, India (UPI) — Floods marooned 60,000 persons and made 30,000 homeless in Assam and Manipur states, reports reaching here said Friday. Flood waters reached roof-top height at many places. Communications were disrupted and roads blocked over a wide area.

A scarcity of food, fuel, and drinking water increased in hard-hit areas.

11 Unopposed Candidates Are Certified

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The State Democratic Executive Committee certified 11 unopposed candidates Friday as Democratic nominees for state and district offices in the Aug. 4 primary.

The group included Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson, Secretary of State Heber Ladner, Supreme Court Clerk Tom Q. Ellis, Central District Public Service Commissioner Norman Johnson Jr., and North District Highway Commissioner Roy C. Adams, all seeking re-election to the posts they now hold.

The other six candidates, all seeking district attorney posts, were N. S. Sweat Jr. of Corinth, Boyce Holleman of Wiggins, Parham H. Williams Jr. of Lexington, T. J. Lawrence of Vicksburg, Mike Carr of Brookhaven and Vernon H. Broome of Columbia. Sweat, Holleman, Lawrence, Carr and Broome are incumbents.

The committee also approved a ballot for contested state and district posts and ruled several men who had withdrawn as candidates were not eligible to have their filing fees returned.

Committee Secretary Sidney Hurdle of Holly Springs asked the committee to seek legislative action to put candidates for floater representative and senatorial candidates under the state committee, instead of under county groups. The committee approved the proposal.

It also voted to ask the Legislature to increase the fees for filing for office.

Chairman Bidwell Adam of Gulfport presided at the session.

U.N. Chief Asks Continuation Of Refugee Agency

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld urged Friday that the U.N. Relief and Works Agency for Palestine refugees be kept going until the million Arabs on its rolls are absorbed once more into the Middle East economy.

In a report to the General Assembly, Hammarskjöld also presented an economic plan to make all the refugees self-supporting in five to 10 years with a maximum capital investment of about $1,700,000.

Diplomatic sources have reported that the secretary general's recommendations are generally acceptable to the Arabs.

The U.N. refugee agency will go out of existence in mid-1960 unless the Assembly acts next fall to prolong its life.

BACK IN BUSINESS

LONDON (UPI) — William Connor resumed his "Cassandra" column in the London Daily Mirror Friday for the first time since the start of Liberator's libel action against him and the paper. Liberator was awarded $22,400 in damages. Connor's current subject was cricket.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

"SORRY,

Soviet Confident Of Summit Meet

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev declared Friday a summit meeting to maintain peace in an uneasy world will become even more imperative if the foreign ministers fail at Geneva. He confidently predicted the heads of state will confer.

"We hold that if the foreign ministers do not reach agreement in Geneva, a meeting at the summit will become all the more necessary," he declared at a Kremlin rally for visiting East German leader. "I would be glad to go, not only to one, but to several summit meetings."

Khrushchev offered to discuss—presumably at Geneva or at the summit—his one-year time limit for Americans, British and French to pull their occupation forces out of West Berlin. But he rejected the major points raised by the West in its last offer at Geneva.

In Geneva, the Soviet Union offered to extend the deadline to 18 months.

Khrushchev renewed his threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany and to back that regime with all the military might of the Soviet Union.

The West considers Khrushchev's deadline for a Berlin solution an ultimatum. The French and Americans have said they will refuse to meet him at the summit under such conditions.

To the applause of visiting East German leaders and others at a mass rally in the Kremlin, Khrushchev answered the West.

"Any time limit suggested by the Soviet Union in its proposals can be discussed. They never were meant to be ultimatum-like and can be discussed in a business-like way," he said.

"All the pros and cons should be discussed. Obviously, we should try to meet one another and establish a time limit acceptable to all. The time limit is not the most important thing. What is important is agreement on the main questions."

Sweeping aside the West's latest proposal at Geneva, which would maintain the West's war-zone rights to occupy Berlin, Khrushchev declared the Soviet Union never will sign any document that would restore permanent occupation rights in Berlin.

"If we sign a peace treaty with East Germany," Khrushchev continued, "this would mean an end to all occupational rights."

"If anyone would try to restore an occupation regime by force, we would come to the aid of East Germany with all the means of our command to aid a member of the Warsaw Pact."

He insisted the Soviet government wants to sign a peace treaty with a united Germany. But he said "if the West continues to hinder the settlement of the German question, nothing remains for the Soviet Union but to sign a peace treaty with one sovereign state."

Khrushchev rejected the suggestion, embodied in the latest Western offer at Geneva, that a traffic control agreement be concluded with the East Germans as agents of the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Union now controls the road and rail links to West Berlin, 110 miles inside East Germany. The West refuses to recognize the East German government but offered to let East Germans occupy checkpoints on the supply lines as a concession to the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev said some Westerners are under the illusion that conditions would remain the same after the East German peace treaty and that communications with Berlin would remain.

"But what foundation is there for this?" he asked. "Any control of communications would be carried out by German Democratic Republic personnel as representatives of a sovereign state and not, as the West says, as representatives of the Soviet Union. This is not only naive, it is disrespectful."

Khrushchev said the Western powers in their package proposal set a 2½-year time limit on the work of an all-German committee to unify the divided country.

"However, we do not regard such proposals on a time limit as being an ultimatum," Khrushchev said.

Khrushchev devoted some of his sharpest remarks to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Ger-

Negotiators Silent About Steel Talks

NEW YORK (UPI)—A two-hour negotiating session Friday between union and management failed to break the deadlock over a new contract in the steel industry.

The top level, industry-wide conference was recessed until Monday. Neither side would comment on the situation. The old contract expires June 30.

"Silence is golden," said David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers as the session broke up. He added that at this late stage in the negotiations, this was not the time to talk.

R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of U.S. Steel Corp., and industry's chief negotiator, also was uncommunicative.

Neither Cooper nor McDonald would give newsmen any indication of the trend of Friday's discussions between the two four-man teams of industry and labor.

The attitude of Cooper and McDonald toward each other seemed friendly. They posed together willingly for pictures. Cooper had said before the session that the time had arrived to "get down to cases."

After the meeting, which lasted from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., Cooper and McDonald maintained pleasant but poker-faced demeanors.

McDonald refused to evaluate the results of 12 separate meetings held Wednesday and Thursday between some 500 representatives of the union and industry, during which they discussed local problems in the plants of 12 major steel companies which would be affected by a strike.

Cooper, it was learned, will accompany Roger M. Blough, chairman of U. S. Steel Corp., to Washington where they will meet Monday night with a group of liberal Democrats who had been briefed by McDonald on the state of the current negotiations at a similar meeting last Monday.

A new contract must be agreed upon before midnight June 30 to avert a nation-wide strike. Negotiations have been in progress since May 5.

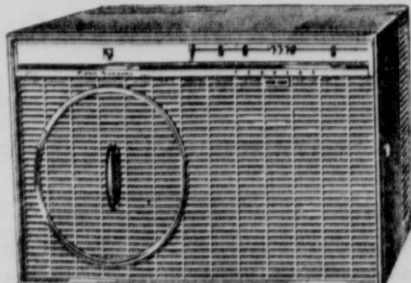

Thus far, the union has insisted on a "substantial" wage increase and other contract revisions. Management has offered a one-year extension of the present contract with no pay boosts.

Man Is Killed In Arkansas Family Row

CORNING, Ark. (AP)—One man was shot to death and another was wounded near Peach Orchard Thursday at the outbreak of a family quarrel.

Deputy Sheriff Wid Rice identified the slain man as Charlie Morris, 56, of Poe, Mo., and the wounded man as William Graham, also 56, of Brosley, Mo.

Claude Gearhart, 79, Morris' father-in-law, was jailed here without formal charge.

Morris and Graham, who was not wounded dangerously, were shot outside Gearhart's home, 3½ miles west of Peach Orchard.

Rice said he was told the trouble started over Morris' estranged wife, the daughter of Gearhart, who has been staying at her father's home.

Rice said Gearhart related that he fired three times after Morris stood outside the house and shouted, apparently to Mrs. Morris. "If you don't come out, I'll throw dynamite in the house."

The first shot from a shotgun struck and killed Morris. The last two shots struck Graham, who had driven to the Gearhart home with Morris. Gearhart said he thought he was still shooting at Morris.

Graham was wounded in a knee and an arm and shoulder. He was taken to a hospital at Piggott.

Rice said Morris was struck as he was climbing over a fence outside the Gearhart home.

The deputy said he found no dynamite in Morris' pick-up truck. Peach Orchard is in southwest Clay County.

Dominican Agent Springs Trap On Exiles In Havana

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—An invasion of the Dominican Republic reported Monday by exiles in Havana was in reality a trap sprung by a Dominican government agent, Gen. Jose Garcia Trujillo, air force chief, said Friday.

He said Juan de Dios Ventura, a Dominican air force pilot, had flown a band of exiles from Puerto Rico to the Dominican airport at Constanza where the trap "bit the easy marks."

Garcia Trujillo did not mention the number of exiles in the group but reports in Puerto Rico said the rebel band had 65 members.

The air force chief announced that Ventura had been promoted from major to lieutenant colonel.

Garcia Trujillo said Ventura went to Puerto Rico several weeks ago and posed as a political exile and foe of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, the Dominican strongman.

"Ventura was on special service and was sent precisely to bring back to the country some of the so-called exile who have refused to come spontaneously," Garcia Trujillo said.

Garcia Trujillo said the Dominican armed forces are on the alert against invasion forces that he said are being trained in Cuba. He declared that Cuba is the center for invasion attempts against other countries.
